5,000 View Parade For Chester Fair

Firemen's Annual Celebration To End At Tonight's Event

A crowd estimated at over 5,000 watched the annual Chester volunteer firemen's parade Friday night — highlight of the fair which ends tonight at Rock Springs Park.

The Chester Lions Club and the Chester VFW Post 6450 won the top float prizes, and the Northern Panhandle Shrine Club won the prize for the best comedy outfit.

The Jane-Ettes of East Palestine took first prize in the marching baton twirlers division, with the Wellsville Realator-ettes second.

Winners in the fire equipment division were Weirton No. 1 Department, best emergency truck; Neville Island, best light pumper; Moon Township, best heavy pumper, and South Fayette, best squad car.

Girls riding in convertibles in the procession were Charmil Pugh, Mary Ann Oyster, Jenny Temple and Linda Carpenter.

Mayor Harry Abrams was marshal of the parade, led by the Chester High School band. Judges were John Bright and Andrew Kondik of Weirton and Archie Coen of Newell for fire equipment, Mrs. Alyce Ann McDevitt of Chester for marching units, and Tony Bernardi of Chester for floats and comics. Harold Dickey of Chester was announcer.

Clarence Lennens, secretary of the fire department, said sheriff's deputies and constables assisted in traffic control and a group of Citizens' Band radio operators provided communications for parade organization and traffic control.

6 Deaths Widen Probe Into Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government, still tracking down remaining stores of thalidomide, has revealed that six women died after using another drug—a birth control pill known as Enovid.

As yet, the Food and Drug Administration said Friday, there is no evidence the tablets caused the deaths. But both the manufacturer, G. D. Searle & Co. of Chicago, and the FDA have the drug under an "intensive investigation," the agency said.

The immediate cause of all the deaths apparently was thrombophlebitis, blood clots accompanied by irritation of the veins.

In addition to the six deaths there have been 20 non-fatal cases of thrombophlebitis among women who have taken Enovid, the FDA reported.

The U.S. statement was issued after British medical authorities issued a warning against the use of the contraceptive pill.

The British Medical Journal reported four women in Britain developed thrombosis after taking the pill—called Conovid there—and one of them died. It said there were similar instances in the United States.

As did the American officials, the British journal stressed that evidence linking the pill to the illnesses and deaths is at present circumstantial.

The Enovid development came on the heels of an outcry over the sedative, thalidomide, blamed for the malformation of thousands of infants in Europe whose mothers took the drug during early pregnancy.

U.S. officials said Friday that

British Scientist Is Victim

42 Are Watched Closely As 'Black Death' Strikes

LONDON (AP)—Health officials maintained a close check today on 42 persons possibly infected by a British germ warfare scientist who died Wednesday of the pneumonic plague—a form of the Black Death.

One official said there is no danger of epidemic.

Twelve persons, including the scientist's widow and his daughters, age 15 and 11, were quarantined in their homes. The remaining 30 are ambulance attendants and staff members at the hospital that treated 44-year-old George Bacon, who was stricken Sunday and died Wednesday. They have been vaccinated and are working under observation.

All will be given daily doses of antibiotics until the danger period ends in the next 10 days, officials said.

Dr. Frederick Lishman, medical officer of health for Salisbury, said, "We are satisfied that all contacts have been found. I am satisfied that there is no reason to expect anything like an epidemic. But one cannot rule out the possibility of one or possibly two secondary cases."

Bacon was a research officer at Britain's principal germ warfare research center at Porton Downs in Wiltshire and was reported working on pneumonic and bubonic plague projects.

A few ounces of some germs handled at the 17-year-old center are virulent enough to wipe out whole populations. Part of the center's work is designed to find means of combatting possible enemy germ war attacks.

State Official Investigates Fatal Gassing

Recommends Hose For Oxygen Device For Firemen's Use

A recommendation that a better type of oxygen equipment be provided to prevent a recurrence of the tragic deaths of four men from sewer gas Thursday night will be included in a report to the State Industrial Commission.

Ted Drouhard of Youngstown, a safety advisor for the commission's Division of Safety and Hygiene, commented this morning following an investigation Friday that an extension hose would have allowed firemen and rescuers to use the face mask independently of the tank.

Drouhard agreed with firemen that the 22-inch opening on the cesspool was too narrow to permit a man using the portable Scott Air-Pak to crawl down a ladder to reach the victims.

However, the safety advisor pointed out a man equipped with a mask alone could have crawled into the opening.

County For First Time Has No Gamblers?

Columbiana County's gambling fraternity is either becoming shy — or honest! For the first time in years, no federal gambling stamp has been issued to a countian.

The Internal Revenue Service at Cleveland said 82 of the $50 gambling stamps have been issued since July 1 in the district's 47 counties of Northern Ohio and none of the recipients gave a Columbiana County address. But 10 applications still are being processed.

At one time, 10 to 15 persons in East Liverpool got the stamps and in the past two years a lone Wellsville resident's name was listed annually as the only one in the county. Jefferson County leads even Mahoning County, 16 to 12. Belmont County is next for this area with eight.

U.S. To Air New Bid On Test Checks

Dean Will Confer With British And Russian Officials

GENEVA (AP) —Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, chief U.S. delegate to the 17-nation disarmament talks, returned from Washington today with new American compromise proposals on how to police a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests.

Dean declined to go into details and referred newsmen to the statement President Kennedy made at his news conference last Wednesday.

He told reporters at the airport he will be meeting with British Minister of State Joseph B. Godber and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin over the weekend.

The proposals Dean will submit to the 17-nation disarmament conference Monday go a long way toward meeting Soviet opposition to international inspection of a test ban. But since they do not eliminate Western insistence on at least some inspection, diplomats feel that little, if any, progress will be made.

Oldest Son Suspected; Near Death

Youth, 14, Wounds Self In Head With Same Police Pistol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio highway patrol corporal, his wife, daughter and young son were found slain or wounded fatally in their home today. Another 14-year-old son suspected of the killings is near death in a hospital.

The bodies of Cpl. Ralph R Lanker, 45; his wife Virginia Fern; a daughter Bea, 12, and son Thomas, 9, were discovered in their home near suburban Grove City, southwest of Columbus. They had been shot with a .28 caliber target pistol.

Ray Lanker, the six-foot, teenage son of the patrolman later was found near a freeway exit in the northern part of Columbus. Police said the boy apparently had fired a bullet into his temple. He is in critical condition in Riverside Hospital.

The target pistol police believe was used in all the shootings was found along with the teenager. It belonged to his father.

No motive for the shootings was apparent immediately.

Both police and highway patrolmen had started a widespread search for the teenager before he was found at the freeway exit.

Patrol Capt. P. S. Kinsey said first information in the case came from Columbus police. They had reported that a man had spotted a patrol car being driven at a high rate of speed on North Fourth Street, and that the driver appeared to be a civilian teenager.

The civilian who spotted the car managed to halt it, Capt. Kinsey said, and the youth at the wheel, unable to produce credentials, drove off again. His description matched that of Ray Lanker. The next time the car was seen, it had been abandoned on the freeway. Its signal light on top of the car had been removed, and an effort had been made to obliterate the patrol number on the car.

Patrol officers then learned the car had been assigned to Cpl. Lanker. A telephone call to his home drew no reply. A patrol unit dispatched to the home found the corporal, his wife and the two young children. All were dead with the exception of the younger child, Thomas. He died before reaching the hospital.

Slain Officer Served At County Patrol Post

Cpl. Ralph Lanker served at the Salem post of Highway Patrol as a patrolman until 1942 when he entered the Marines.

He returned in 1946 and served until about 1950, residing both at Salem and Poland before he was married. He was an acquaintance of a number of Columbiana County residents and officials.

Leetonia Man Files Bid For County Judge

Atty. Edward C. Greenamyer of Leetonia filed Friday afternoon with the County Election Board to seek one of two four-year terms as county judge on a non-partisan ballot at the Nov. 6 general election.

Atty. Greenamyer is the second to enter. Judge Luther Donbar of Columbiana, whose court is located at Salem, entered Monday for a four-year term.

The county will elect two for four-year terms and one for a two-year term. The aspirants must designate on their nominating petitions whether they are seeking a long term or a short term.

The other two incumbents also are expected to seek new terms. They are Judge James L. MacDonald, whose court is at Lisbon, and Judge Herbert Arfman, whose court is at East Palestine.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, said more candidates are expected to file by Monday. The deadline is Wednesday at 4 p.m. A total field of five or more is expected, including the three incumbents.

Atty. Greenamyer, a graduate of the Law School at Youngstown University, has practiced in Leetonia since graduation in 1949. He still maintains a half interest in the Greenamyer Insurance Agency, founded by his grandfather, J. S. Greenamyer.

A native of Leetonia, he is married and the father of four children — two of them married. He is serving his fourth term as Leetonia village solicitor, an appointive office.

He is making his first bid for an elective post. A past president of the Leetonia Chamber of Commerce, he is active in the Leetonia Methodist Church. He is a member of the Leetonia-Washingtonville Kiwanis Club and vice president of the 19th Division Council of Kiwanis.

He is a member of the Leetonia Masonic Lodge and the Columbiana County and Ohio Bar Associations.

Morse Fires New Threat Of Filibuster

Clashes With Wiley During Hearing On Satellite Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of a new filibuster has been fired into the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's first "truce" hearing on the administration's communications satellite bill.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a leader of the filibuster that for five days blocked Senate consideration of the measure, got into a row Friday with Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., and promised to answer Wiley "at some length after Aug. 10."

That's the day the bill is to return to the Senate floor for more debate under a truce agreement that had shunted it to the committee for further study in order to end the filibuster. Friday's hearing offered Senate leaders little hope that the battle's end was in sight.

A large part of the day was taken up with the questioning by Morse of chairman Newton W. Minow of the Federal Communications Commission who described the bill as a marriage of government and free enterprise.

Minow observed that it was the 11th time he had testified on the measure, which the House passed by a lopsided vote on May 3 and which previously had been approved by two other Senate committees.

The bill would set up a private, government - regulated corporation to own and operate the U.S. portion of a projected global communications system using satellites as relay stations.

New Bids Cut City's Street Project Cost

Stark County Firm Drops 3.5 Cents Off Offer Of July 13

The apparent low bid filed with the Board of Control Friday on a low-cost street surfacing program for East Liverpool cut the price more than 3 cents per square yard, compared with the only offer received when bids first were opened on July 13.

The low offer of 35 cents a square yard was filed by Ohio Tar & Asphalt, Inc., of Canton, one of three concerns that submitted prices yesterday to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen.

The only offer received at the first bid-opening session three weeks ago came from the Tri-State Asphalt Corp. of East Liverpool and Martins Ferry. Tri-State submitted the same price again yesterday, 38½ cents a square yard.

The Ohio Valley Paving Corp. of St. Clairsville filed the third offer yesterday, setting its price at 36.4 cents per square yard.

Based on the Stark County firm's low bid, the householders' cost for a low-cost street surfacing program will be approximately 17½ cents a lineal front foot for a street 18 feet wide. Under Tri-State's July 13 bid, the cost would have been a little over 19 cents a running foot.

Ohio Tar's offer figures out to about 22 cents a front foot for a 22-foot wide street.

Ohio Tar's bid would make the overall cost 70 cents per running foot on either side of an 18-foot

Car's Smoke Causes Fear Of Plant Fire

A backfire from the carburetor of a passing car was blamed by firemen for the report of a fire Friday night at the former American Paper Products Co. building on Walnut and E. 3rd Sts.

Firemen said the driver of an old auto apparently gunned his engine, producing a cloud of smoke. Passersby saw the smoke and called firemen, believing there was a fire in the structure.

Firemen were unable to find any trace of a fire. The alarm was received at 9:43 p.m.

and cesspools in your area and a similar tragedy could occur if the equipment isn't available and used," Drouhard said.

He suggested that not only an extension hose be used by rescuers or firemen but said an additional unit shouid be available to aid a victim.

"There's not much time when victims are hit," he pointed out.

Drouhard termed the hydrogen sulfide fumes worse than carbon monoxide in many respects because it effects the nervous system. "You can take some carbon monoxide but only a little dose of this nerve gas because of its paralyzing effect," he declared.

Drouhard conferred with William Ridge, a neighbor and one of the men on the scene before firemen arrived and Police Lt. C. E. (Bill) Tice, who made a report of the accident.

He also went to the home of Robert Birbeck on Henry Ave. where the tragedy occurred, and talked to firemen and checked the equipment available.

He expects to return to East Liverpool early next week to continue his investigation, questioning some of the additional men involved in the rescue attempt, including Fireman Sheridan G. Pollock, who with Richard J. Plumley, were the first firefighters to reach the scene. Mr. Plumley died.

Pollock was hospitalized Thursday night, suffering mostly from shock at the death of his companion, but was released Friday afternoon.

Meanwhile, John J. O'Daugherty of Lorain, an international trustee of the International Association of Fire-Fighters, also is expected to make a separate investigation over the weekend.

Officials also are awaiting a report from a Cleveland toxicologist on blood samples of the four victims to determine the type and amount of the poisonous gas they inhaled.

The tragedy started when Burton Richards of Cannons Mill, owner of the Richards Sanitary Service, and his helper, Lawrence Miller, 17, of Glenmoor went to the Birbeck home to clean out the cesspool.

After pumping out some of the refuse, the men had the commode flushing but it apparently didn't work satisfactorily.

Young Miller then crawled down a ladder to use a plumber's "snake" to clear the sewer runoff from the house but was overcome by fumes and toppled into the 13-foot pit.

Seeing his co-worker felled, Mr. Richards also crawled down the ladder, called for help and then collapsed.

James E. Sherwood, who had gone to the scene with his 8-year-old son, and Fireman Plumley attempted their rescue but both were overcome.

Mr. Sherwood was dead when finally pulled out of the pit and the 28-year-old firefighter succumbed about three hours later at City Hospital.

Hancock Boy Suffers Burns

An 8-year-old Pughtown area boy, burned when his shirt ignited from a lumber fire, was admitted Friday to City Hospital where four area residents were treated after separate mishaps and released.

Stacey Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller of Mineral Springs Park, Pughtown, received second degree burns of the head, shoulders and back of the neck at his home yesterday afternoon about 4:30.

A second grade pupil at the Pughtown School, he tossed a board — from a building being torn down at the site — onto a fire, and his shirt ignited, the family said.

Ronald Tice, 26, of 807 Lisbon St., Wellsville, a concrete worker, was treated last night for a puncture wound of the right hand received while laying wire for concrete.

June Wyant, 2014 Pennsylvania Ave. Ext., suffered a laceration of the left cheek in a fall.

Andrew Zubay, 2½, son of John Zubay of Shadyside Ave., suffered a laceration of the scalp in a fall on a cement porch.

What the United States, with British support, is now willing to offer is no less than one of Moscow's basic conditions for agreement to a test ban: That seismic stations deployed around the globe to detect underground nuclear explosions be manned entirely by citizens of the country in whose territory they lie.

Years ago, when the American-British-Soviet test ban negotiations were conducted apart from general disarmament talks, the Russians agreed in principle that there should be 180 detection posts around the world.

all supplies of thalidomide it has been able to locate in U.S. doctors' hands have been destroyed or impounded.

However, officials still have not been able to reach 158 of the 1,231 physicians who are reported to have received the drug for experimental use. These physicians were on vacation or had moved. The FDA said it was continuing its efforts to locate them.

Thalidomide was kept off the American market by a government scientist, Dr. Frances Kelsey, who refused to approve the licensing application. But it was distributed extensively for clinical testing.

The FDA said in announcing the investigation of the birth control pill and the six deaths that "The question of the possible causal relationship is under intensive investigation by the manufacturer as well as the Food and Drug Administration."

"Under the law," said the FDA, "action to suspend or revoke the existing new drug application (government permission to market the pills) requires proof that the drug is unsafe. The drug is available only upon prescription."

Lie Detector Test Refused

BEAVER FALLS — Carroll Williams, 27, of Monaca, who has been charged with the murder of Mrs. Loretta Dean Schultz, 23, of Sewickley Township, refused a lie detector test Friday and his counsel plans to petition the courts for his release.

When returned to Beaver County Thursday night after being picked up in Crestline, Ohio, Williams had agreed to a lie detector test. But Friday he refused the test on advice of his counsel, Atty. John Conte of Baden. A polygraph expert had been brought from Washington, Pa., to give the test.

Atty. Conte will petition the courts for a writ of habeas corpus to have Williams released for lack of evidence. The court has set Monday at 10 a.m. for a hearing on the petition.

District Atty. Richard P. Steward contends Williams is not being held unlawfully.

A bench warrant from Judge Robert McCreary was served Friday on Williams by Sheriff John M. Hineman Jr. for violation of the provisions of his sentence after being convicted by a jury on a charge of aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill on Jan. 7, 1958.

Authorities said Williams failed to pay restitution of $2,500 to the victim, James Cornish.

A native of Charleston and a resident of California and Beaver County, formerly of Monaca, Williams has admitted visiting two Rochester taverns with Mrs. Schultz last Monday evening.

Mrs. Schultz, mother of two small children, was found strangled Tuesday afternoon, partly nude in a lovers' lane in New Sewickley Township.

Trouble Goes With The Deal

Do not be shocked if the much-publicized Alliance for Progress gets kicked in the teeth in Argentina, the way it was kicked in Peru.

It would be a natural hookup for Juan Peron and his followers to combine forces with international communism against the wavering government of President Jose Maria Guido. International power politics makes strange bedfellows too.

International communism must fight the Alliance for Progress in Latin America for the same reason it fought the Marshall Plan in Europe. Communist must fight every project that promises to stabilize governments it neither can dominate or overthrow. Its purpose is world revolution.

Communist agents always find local talent to help them attack U.S. moves to stabilize governments by improving the living conditions of the least privileged and therefore most dissatisfied citizens. What is more embarrassing, communists always can get a hearing by these dissatisfied citizens because they can promise them speedy deliverance through revolution. The United States can promise only gradual improvement through work, which never has been an attractive proposition to have nots.

There will be trouble in Argentina. There will be trouble every place marked for trouble by international communism—Berlin, Buenos Aires, Panama City, Tokyo, a factory in the U.S. Midwest, an island in the Pacific, a submarine base in Scotland, a spot on the map of Africa.

Americans never should be shocked when Communists make trouble. It is as standard a part of the times as windy statements by the U.S. government about the great expectations of every new plan for fighting communism with dollars.

If Washington boasted less, there might be less trouble.

A Tragic Lesson

The city still was stunned today by Thursday night's tragedy on Henry Ave.

Heart-felt sympathy goes to the families of those who met untimely deaths. Their grief, however, should be tempered by the knowledge that with death went heroism.

Only the deepest respect can be felt for Burton Richards, James E. Sherwood and Fireman Richard J. Plumley, who entered the ill-fated cesspool which already held the body of Lawrence D. Miller. They measured up when danger called.

With their deaths in mind, every precaution should be taken that a similar tragedy does not occur in the future.

These are among suggested safety measures: 1.—Those who have cesspools still in operation should notify the city Healthy Department.

2.—The Health Department, in turn, should begin a check to determine if such installations are being cared for properly.

3.—Those whose job it is to clean such cesspools should review their methods in the interest of greater safety.

After a tragedy such as Thursday's, there is no time for delay.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I have not read any good books lately, if you insist on knowing. This is not surprising. I haven't read any books at all lately.

The last two I was persuaded to read were peppered with four-letter words I was forbidden to use in my own house, yet here was my sweet wife lapping them up with a glint in her eye as if she had been denied the privilege of knowing about them before. It was frightening. I swore off books then and there. I didn't want to get hooked.

Unqualified as I am to make a literary judgment, I do feel free to point out that in my case I get all the fiction I need to keep my mind from buckling by watching television. I am spending the same amount of time being bug-eyed in front of the gawk-box as I formerly spent being bug-eyed over novels and short stories — and the gawk-box has one advantage.

It is controllable with a switch. Its material is run off on a time schedule, moreover, so you can tell in advance how long it is going to take for the story about to be unfolded before your wondering eyes.

As far as important literature is concerned, I quit knowing what it was years ago when they began to weigh new books and write them by the pound. I brought on an attack of arthritis trying to read one of the five-pounders and blessed if that wasn't the only thing I did get out of it, except a pair of red eyes.

When I start to read I can no more put a book in cold storage than I could put my meal back in the refrigerator. It is now or never, which makes all long books impossible, medium books questionable and short books only a tedious substitute for the same kind of material dramatized on television.

There is no intrinsic merit in reading books, unless the purpose is to accumulate knowledge. It is of no consequence to me, therefore, that I am not abreast of literary trends, because I am a whole generation past the stage of my life where I am trying to impress anyone.

Some of us are not bookish. It's the same thing as some of us not being musical. I would make a fool of myself pretending I had an ear for music. Therefore I do not propose to make a fool of myself pretending I have an eye for books.

On the rare occasions when something I want to know can be learned no other way, I can read a book as well as anyone. Your aunt says I scarcely move my lips any more when I read; that I almost seem to be an old hand at it. Returning the compliment, I can testify she scarcely moves her brain when she reads because close inquiry has revealed she can go all the way through a best-selling novel and have nothing more to say about it than that the author must have lived a colorful life.

When I ask if she learned any new four-letter words, she just grins and asks me if there are any she doesn't know. This stops me. Any woman who keeps abreast of current fiction these days knows 'em all. She has had the equivalent of a stretch in the old-time cavalry.

Not only does she know the words but she knows the thoughts that go with the words. Although I can't say it has done any damage to your Aunt Effie or any other woman I happen to be acquainted with, it's a pretty darned ridiculous situation.

Give our regards to everybody at your place and tell me if you pick up any new expressions from the handwriting on the walls in public places. Maybe I could sell them to budding authors.

Cotton Corners — UNCLE GEORGE

Mister Safety

The death of Ned Dearborn in Titusville, Pa., last Wednesday probably would have passed unnoticed except for one fact: His name had become synonymous with safety.

As president of the National Safety Council, he made those gloomy predictions of spiraling holiday traffic deaths from 1944 until his retirement in 1958. How many lives his forecasts saved is a question that never will be answered. Perhaps he saved none. But he did succeed each holiday in alerting the nation to the highway hazards it would face.

He made popular such slogans, as "Alcohol and gasoline don't mix," "Slow down and live longer."

He was a man who practiced what he preached. When he was a school teacher and college professor, long before safety became his profession, he would wait for a traffic light to change before crossing a street, even when there was no vehicle in sight.

Perhaps even more important than the scary warnings he issued was this personal example. Safety, despite all the preachments, remains a matter of individual concern.

Meteor Shower Awaited

Eight billion meteors strike the atmosphere each day, but only five or six reach the ground.

Most meteors are too tiny to be seen, but in August the Perseids streak through the sky in a spectacular display.

Early on the morning of Aug. 12, at the peak of the shower, an observer may see a meteor every minute. Most will appear to radiate from a point just below a W-shaped group of stars in the northern sky. Below this is the constellation, Perseus, for which the shower is named.

Intense heat from air friction vaporizes all but the largest meteors. A pebble or grain of sand, traveling up to 70 miles a second, will compress molecules of air before it, raising their temperatures thousands of degrees. Rock and metal melt away in blazing trails of sparks that mark the destruction of these visitors from space.

Shower meteors, like the Perseids, are roughly uniform in size. None has been known to reach the ground, yet almost all are large enough to leave trails.

Astronomers believe that meteor showers are spawned from the debris of comets. The Perseids wheel around the sun in the orbit of a comet, scheduled to return in George Orwell's prophetic year, 1984.

This And That

The number of free college educations is increasing in the U. S. Today there are business firms, endowments, cooperatives, labor unions, and other organizations which are putting out an estimated million dollars annually in free college aid to more than 75,000 students. Some of these scholarships even cover housing allotments, food, and clothing, as well as tuition.

The first building in America to be erected specifically for hotel purposes was the 73-room City Hotel, which was opened in New York City in 1794. Until that time, innkeepers converted their own or someone else's home into some sort of inn or hostelry.

A Few Things To Remember

Albania, An Oriental Beachhead

By Victor Riesel

ISTANBUL

That rocky little land is the Communist Oriental beachhead in Europe. But so tight is the security that little leaks out — except the blood and tears and sometimes the screams of the few who attempt to escape by land or water. Albania's harbors are constantly floodlit at night. So are its death - strip borders. While in Greece I did hear of rather gory concentration camps in Nazi Stalag style. Dissenters are sent to such barbed wire encampments to skeletonize and die. There is one such camp at Koroka, Albania.

Victor Riesel

There the military police simply shot down 20 political prisoners who protested the shortening of food rations, the constant beating by prison guards and ghastly inhuman overwork on schedules created to kill the inmates.

News of this is permitted to leak on the theory that terror will paralyze the tongue. In Albania there is no freedom from surveillance. Not even in the foreign embassies.

HERE IN TURKEY I heard of the Turkish ambassador's experience. Not too long ago he was attempting to brief a few visiting Turkish newsmen he had managed to get into Tirana, the capital of Albania. He spoke to the group huddled around him in the embassy.

He whispered so the microphones concealed by the Albanian secret police could not pick up his words. But the counter - intelligence, in the form of maids, kept coming in to dust.

Finally he had to order the maids to stop coming into his private office. The Turkish ambassador told his countrymen that during other private conversations, windoes would smash suddenly. Glaziers appeared in the office miraculously to fix the panes during confidential conversations.

Still other such conferences were interrupted by plumbers who came when faucets suddenly opened and began flooding the sink or the toilet bowl and the nearby water closet began running over mysteriously. Otherwise you could not get a glazier or a plumber to fix something until the end of the fourth five-year plan.

Why all this secrecy and counter-intelligence? Because the Albanians want to know just how much the non-Communist lands know of the Chinese Communist infiltration into Europe — which is the base for infiltration of Africa and Latin America via Cuba.

WE DO KNOW that the Chinese technicians have replaced the know - how of the Russian and European specialists almost completely since last Aug. 31.

We do know that the Peiping government has been sending Albania considerable tonnage of the wheat the Chinese Communists have been getting from Canada. And most recently from Australia. We do know that the Mao Tse-tung government has been making a juicy profit of some 40 per cent on these transactions.

The Albanians get the foreign exchange by selling their own produce to the rest of the world via Swiss financiers and produce operators. Thus it can pay a high price in hard cash to the Chinese Communists for wheat which Peiping denies its own people — who are dying of malnutrition by the tens of thousands and simply dropping dead of hunger.

This creates a desperate moral problem for the U.S. It is reported in diplomatic circles here that we plant to feed millions of Chinese if the Peiping leaders ask us.

If we do this, what guarantee do we have that our wheat and surplus foodstuffs won't be used to finance Communist Chinese operations against us on three continents — Europe, Africa and Latin America.

IT IS THE FEELING in many sophisticated circles that American supervision must go with the supplies of food inside Communist mainland China. Otherwise the Communist Chinese will simply turn much of it into cash —either by selling our wheat directly, or using our wheat and food internally and exporting their own crops instead of using all available tonnage to feed their hundreds of millions of people.

When, for example, the Russians stopped aiding Albania almost exactly a year ago, the Peiping government moved in with a guarantee of credits to Albanian dictator Hoxha — a guarantee of some $125 million. Where do the bankrupt Communist Chinese leaders get this money? Why don't they use it to feed their own people?

Obviously the Mao government is giving its international apparatus high priority. Obviously it is using its secret Albanian beachhead as the jumping off point for Africa where there are now scores of small Chinese communities filled with Chinese technicians, intelligence men, organizers, and their families.

It will come as a surprise that these Chinese Communist communities reach not only from Tirana to Conakry, Guinea, but across the South Atlantic into scores of Latin American cities.

We have not yet trained the skilled manpower needed to study this development south of our own border.

But let it be known from now on, that the Chinese Communists have their eyes on more mainlands than their own.

Albany Issue

By David Lawrence

Kennedy's Statement Stirs Questions

It isn't too clear whether President Kennedy in his news conference last Wednesday was trying to compliment the Negroes of Albany, Ga., by comparing them to the Communist government in Moscow, or whether he was trying to compliment the Communists. The President said: "Let me say that I find it wholly inexplicable why the City Council of Albany will not sit down with the citizens of Albany, who may be Negroes, and attempt to secure them, in a peaceful way, their rights. The United States government is involved in sitting down at Geneva with representatives of the Soviet Union. I can't understand why the government of Albany — the City Council of Albany —cannot do the same for American citizens."

David Lawrence

In the first place, the President of the United States himself doesn't sit down with all the groups of agitators who picket the White House from time to time and enter into solemn negotiations with them concerning their "rights" or the proposals they may wish to see adopted by the government.

In the second place, the United States government isn't sitting down at Geneva with a group of dissenters in its own ranks, but with another government which has been formally recognized as such.

Nor is it clear that government inside the United States, whether it be federal or state or local, must submit to bludgeoning by spectacular demonstrators who claim to be "nonviolent" but who concede that what they do may stir up violence. They argue that such tactics are justified because their cause seems to them to be just.

NOR IS IT clear either that the demonstrators are "citizens of Albany." Many of them come from other parts of the country as participants in a protest organized and financed by groups outside the city, if not outside the state.

Mayor Kelly of Albany, commenting on President Kennedy's suggestion, is reported in The New York Herald Tribune as having said to the press:

"We have strictly a local problem which can and should be solved by local people only. The City Commission has no intention of negotiating with outside agitators who have announced their intention to violate the city ordinances and state statutes and who have, in fact, violated city ordinances, state statutes, and a restraining order issued by a federal court. We will never negotiate with any person whose announced purpose of being in our city is to turn the city upside down."

Was the President, in trying to show his sympathy with the cause of the agitators, really aware that he was at the same time condoning the tactics of the agitators?

He might more logically have called for the emergence of some mediating influence in the community, though he seems not to have known that the City Commission of Albany had not been unreceptive to informal efforts of that kind before.

The New York Times in a dispatch from Albany said last Thursday:

"Although individual commissioners have met with Negroes informally, there have been no formal consultations on the Negroes' demands for desegregation of public facilities."

WHOM DO THE agitators represent? Have they been chosen by any formal action of the Negroes of the city?

Why should any group which comes in from the outside be accorded formal recognition and a formal negotiating status when it hasn't any credentials that show it to be truly representative of the residents of the community?

The American government, incidentally, has refused to recognize the military junta in Peru because it holds no credentials as yet from the people of Peru.

Democratic government either has to be conducted by formal procedures of some kind or else be swayed by the wishes of any emotional mob that gathers in front of a city hall.

President Kennedy, upon reflection, would hardly wish to be bound by the precedent he established when he said that the City Council of Albany should sit down with the leaders of the mob and arrive at formal decisions as to how the city shall apply its laws and ordinances.

Solutions to the racial problem in the South are hardly more difficult or perplexing than they are in certain cities in the North.

Progress will not be made by inflaming passions through public demonstrations.

Progress will be made only by the exercise of self-restraint and obedience to the orders of courts of law.

Peace In Jamaica

The island of Jamaica achieves independence within the British Commonwealth on Monday Princess Margaret will represent the British crown.

Jamaica has been undergoing a revolution for more than two decades. Independence will not complete the revolution but will give it impetus.

Jamaica has achieved national independence, has shaken off the yoke of the British Colonial Office, has improved the living standards of its people, and established self-government under a system of parliamentary democracy based upon universal adult suffrage, without bloodshed.

The Jamaican can be allowed his boast that his revolution "has been the only revolution in the last three decades that has in fact extended freedom in the Western sense of the term, rather than exchanged one form of dictatorship for another form."

Sir Alexander Bustamente, who will be Jamaica's premier, plans to put his country into the British Commonwealth, the United Nations, the Organization of American States and the International Monetary Fund. On a possible U.N. veto by Soviet Russia, "Busta" declares: "We are pro-American. If by being pro-American we are vetoed, that's our decision. . . We are anti-Communist because we are. If the United States were pro-Communist, we would still be anti-Communist."

THE UNITED STATES has many reasons to welcome the emergence of a firmly anti-Communist island nation only 90 miles from Castro's Cuba. Aside from hemispheric solidarity, the United States has specific adjacent interests in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Panama Canal.

Bustamente desires a treaty with the United States guaranteeing military protection. Under an agreement of Feb. 10, 1961, we retain our rent-free World War II bases on the island.

The United States is a principal purchaser of bauxite produced in Jamaica, also of its other chief exports, sugar and bananas. Beauxite is the only strategic export of the area, and this country takes about 48 per cent of it.

Jamaica has been promised U.S. economic assistance. Last year aid to the West Indies area as a whole came to about $2.3 million.

ABOUT 18 PER CENT of Jamaica's labor force is unemployed, but under the island's industrial development program, economic growth is keeping ahead of population growth. Even so, the island suffers some of the most grinding poverty in the entire Commonwealth. But things are looking up. In 1950 gross domestic product at factor cost was $196.2 million; by 1960 it had risen to $644 million. Per capital income in 1960 was $358 as against $332 in 1959.

In a world growing constantly more color-conscious, Jamaica represents a model of integration. Except for the remnants of the old "plantocracy," most Jamaicans are of mixed blood. And except for a few marihuana-smoking Rastafaris, who want to lead Jamaica's Negroes back to Africa, there is no real racial animosity.

Odd Facts

The electric utilities industry, which had a record year in 1960, has increased its lead in generating capability over the Soviet Union by 6,300,000 kilowatts. This increases the spread between the two nations to 127,300,000 kilowatts from 121,000,000 a year ago.

If the wood used in the United States in one year were stacked to cover an average city block, the pile would reach into outer space for 463 miles.

Forest industries seeded and planted 545,602 acres of new forests during the 1961-62 planting season.

On the rare occasions when something I want to know can be learned no other way, I can read a book as well as anyone. Your aunt says I scarcely move my lips any more when I read; that I almost seem to be an old hand at it. Returning the compliment, I can testify she scarcely moves her brain when she reads because close inquiry has revealed she can go all the way through a best-selling novel and have nothing more to say about it than that the author must have lived a colorful life.

When I ask if she learned any new four-letter words, she just grins and asks me if there are any she doesn't know. This stops me. Any woman who keeps abreast of current fiction these days knows 'em all. She has had the equivalent of a stretch in the old-time cavalry.

Not only does she know the words but she knows the thoughts that go with the words. Although I can't say it has done any damage to your Aunt Effie or any other woman I happen to be acquainted with, it's a pretty darned ridiculous situation.

Give our regards to everybody at your place and tell me if you pick up any new expressions from the handwriting on the walls in public places. Maybe I could sell them to budding authors.

Cotton Corners UNCLE GEORGE

Mister Safety

The death of Ned Dearborn in Titusville, Pa., last Wednesday probably would have passed unnoticed except for one fact: His name had become synonymous with safety.

As president of the National Safety Council, he made those gloomy predictions of spiraling holiday traffic deaths from 1944 until his retirement in 1958. How many lives his forecasts saved is a question that never will be answered. Perhaps he saved none. But he did succeed each holiday in alerting the nation to the highway hazards it would face.

He made popular such slogans, as "Alcohol and gasoline don't mix," "Slow down and live longer."

He was a man who practiced what he preached. When he was a school teacher and college professor, long before safety became his profession, he would wait for a traffic light to change before crossing a street, even when there was no vehicle in sight.

Perhaps even more important than the scary warnings he issued was this personal example. Safety, despite all the preachments, remains a matter of individual concern.

Meteor Shower Awaited

Eight billion meteors strike the atmosphere each day, but only five or six reach the ground.

Most meteors are too tiny to be seen, but in August the Perseids streak through the sky in a spectacular display.

Early on the morning of Aug. 12, at the peak of the shower, an observer may see a meteor every minute. Most will appear to radiate from a point just below a W-shaped group of stars in the northern sky. Below this is the constellation, Perseus, for which the shower is named.

Intense heat from air friction vaporizes all but the largest meteors. A pebble or grain of sand, traveling up to 70 miles a second, will compress molecules of air before it, raising their temperatures thousands of degrees. Rock and metal melt away in blazing trails of sparks that mark the destruction of these visitors from space.

Shower meteors, like the Perseids, are roughly uniform in size. None has been known to reach the ground, yet almost all are large enough to leave trails.

Astronomers believe that meteor showers are spawned from the debris of comets. The Perseids wheel around the sun in the orbit of a comet, scheduled to return in George Orwell's prophetic year, 1984.

This And That

The number of free college educations is increasing in the U. S. Today there are business firms, endowments, cooperatives, labor unions, and other organizations which are putting out an estimated million dollars annually in free college aid to more than 75,000 students. Some of these scholarships even cover housing allotments, food, and clothing, as well as tuition.

The first building in America to be erected specifically for hotel purposes was the 73-room City Hotel, which was opened in New York City in 1794. Until that time, innkeepers converted their own or someone else's home into some sort of inn or hostelry.

The smelting of ore predates written history. Lead was probably the first metal ever smelted, because it is very easy to reduce.

The first written constitution in America was "The Fundamental Orders of Connecticut", formulated in 1639.

The well-known shasta daisy is a production of the famous horticulturist, Luther Burbank. He blended daisies from England, Japan and America into this one beautiful flower.

The first real circus, as we know it today, originated in London, England, toward the end of the 18th century.

A Few Things To Remember

Albania, An Oriental Beachhead

By Victor Riesel

ISTANBUL

That rocky little land is the Communist Oriental beachhead in Europe. But so tight is the security that little leaks out — except the blood and tears and sometimes the screams of the few who attempt to escape by land or water. Albania's harbors are constantly floodlit at night. So are its death - strip borders. While in Greece I did hear of rather gory concentration camps in Nazi Stalag style. Dissenters are sent to such barbed wire encampments to skeletonize and die. There is one such camp at Koroka, Albania.

Victor Riesel

There the military police simply shot down 20 political prisoners who protested the shortening of food rations, the constant beating by prison guards and ghastly inhuman overwork on schedules created to kill the inmates.

News of this is permitted to leak on the theory that terror will paralyze the tongue. In Albania there is no freedom from surveillance. Not even in the foreign embassies.

HERE IN TURKEY I heard of the Turkish ambassador's experience. Not too long ago he was attempting to brief a few visiting Turkish newsmen he had managed to get into Tirana, the capital of Albania. He spoke to the group huddled around him in the embassy.

He whispered so the microphones concealed by the Albanian secret police could not pick up his words. But the counter - intelligence, in the form of maids, kept coming in to dust.

Finally he had to order the maids to stop coming into his private office. The Turkish ambassador told his countrymen that during other private conversations, windoes would smash suddenly. Glaziers appeared in the office miraculously to fix the panes during confidential conversations.

Still other such conferences were interrupted by plumbers who came when faucets suddenly opened and began flooding the sink or the toilet bowl and the nearby water closet began running over mysteriously. Otherwise you could not get a glazier or a plumber to fix something until the end of the fourth five-year plan.

Why all this secrecy and counter-intelligence? Because the Albanians want to know just how much the non-Communist lands know of the Chinese Communist infiltration into Europe — which is the base for infiltration of Africa and Latin America via Cuba.

WE DO KNOW that the Chinese technicians have replaced the know - how of the Russian and European specialists almost completely since last Aug. 31.

We do know that the Peiping government has been sending Albania considerable tonnage of the wheat the Chinese Communists have been getting from Canada. And most recently from Australia. We do know that the Mao Tse-tung government has been making a juicy profit of some 40 per cent on these transactions.

The Albanians get the foreign exchange by selling their own produce to the rest of the world via Swiss financiers and produce operators. Thus it can pay a high price in hard cash to the Chinese Communists for wheat which Peiping denies its own people — who are dying of malnutrition by the tens of thousands and simply dropping dead of hunger.

This creates a desperate moral problem for the U.S. It is reported in diplomatic circles here that we plant to feed millions of Chinese if the Peiping leaders ask us.

If we do this, what guarantee do we have that our wheat and surplus foodstuffs won't be used to finance Communist Chinese operations against us on three continents — Europe, Africa and Latin America.

IT IS THE FEELING in many sophisticated circles that American supervision must go with the supplies of food inside Communist mainland China. Otherwise the Communist Chinese will simply turn much of it into cash —either by selling our wheat directly, or using our wheat and food internally and exporting their own crops instead of using all available tonnage to feed their hundreds of millions of people.

When, for example, the Russians stopped aiding Albania almost exactly a year ago, the Peiping government moved in with a guarantee of credits to Albanian dictator Hoxha — a guarantee of some $125 million. Where do the bankrupt Communist Chinese leaders get this money? Why don't they use it to feed their own people?

Obviously the Mao government is giving its international apparatus high priority. Obviously it is using its secret Albanian beachhead as the jumping off point for Africa where there are now scores of small Chinese communities filled with Chinese technicians, intelligence men, organizers, and their families.

It will come as a surprise that these Chinese Communist communities reach not only from Tirana to Conakry, Guinea, but across the South Atlantic into scores of Latin American cities.

We have not yet trained the skilled manpower needed to study this development south of our own border.

But let it be known from now on, that the Chinese Communists have their eyes on more mainlands than their own.

Albany Issue

By David Lawrence

Kennedy's Statement Stirs Questions

It isn't too clear whether President Kennedy in his news conference last Wednesday was trying to compliment the Negroes of Albany, Ga., by comparing them to the Communist government in Moscow, or whether he was trying to compliment the Communists. The President said: "Let me say that I find it wholly inexplicable why the City Council of Albany will not sit down with the citizens of Albany, who may be Negroes, and attempt to secure them, in a peaceful way, their rights. The United States government is involved in sitting down at Geneva with representatives of the Soviet Union. I can't understand why the government of Albany — the City Council of Albany —cannot do the same for American citizens."

David Lawrence

In the first place, the President of the United States himself doesn't sit down with all the groups of agitators who picket the White House from time to time and enter into solemn negotiations with them concerning their "rights" or the proposals they may wish to see adopted by the government.

In the second place, the United States government isn't sitting down at Geneva with a group of dissenters in its own ranks, but with another government which has been formally recognized as such.

Nor is it clear that government inside the United States, whether it be federal or state or local, must submit to bludgeoning by spectacular demonstrators who claim to be "nonviolent" but who concede that what they do may stir up violence. They argue that such tactics are justified because their cause seems to them to be just.

NOR IS IT clear either that the demonstrators are "citizens of Albany." Many of them come from other parts of the country as participants in a protest organized and financed by groups outside the city, if not outside the state.

Mayor Kelly of Albany, commenting on President Kennedy's suggestion, is reported in The New York Herald Tribune as having said to the press:

"We have strictly a local problem which can and should be solved by local people only. The City Commission has no intention of negotiating with outside agitators who have announced their intention to violate the city ordinances and state statutes and who have, in fact, violated city ordinances, state statutes, and a restraining order issued by a federal court. We will never negotiate with any person whose announced purpose of being in our city is to turn the city upside down."

Was the President, in trying to show his sympathy with the cause of the agitators, really aware that he was at the same time condoning the tactics of the agitators?

He might more logically have called for the emergence of some mediating influence in the community, though he seems not to have known that the City Commission of Albany had not been unreceptive to informal efforts of that kind before.

The New York Times in a dispatch from Albany said last Thursday:

"Although individual commissioners have met with Negroes informally, there have been no formal consultations on the Negroes' demands for desegregation of public facilities."

WHOM DO THE agitators represent? Have they been chosen by any formal action of the Negroes of the city?

Why should any group which comes in from the outside be accorded formal recognition and a formal negotiating status when it hasn't any credentials that show it to be truly representative of the residents of the community?

The American government, incidentally, has refused to recognize the military junta in Peru because it holds no credentials as yet from the people of Peru.

Democratic government either has to be conducted by formal procedures of some kind or else be swayed by the wishes of any emotional mob that gathers in front of a city hall.

President Kennedy, upon reflection, would hardly wish to be bound by the precedent he established when he said that the City Council of Albany should sit down with the leaders of the mob and arrive at formal decisions as to how the city shall apply its laws and ordinances.

Solutions to the racial problem in the South are hardly more difficult or perplexing than they are in certain cities in the North.

Progress will not be made by inflaming passions through public demonstrations.

Progress will be made only by the exercise of self-restraint and obedience to the orders of courts of law.

Peace In Jamaica

The island of Jamaica achieves independence within the British Commonwealth on Monday Princess Margaret will represent the British crown.

Jamaica has been undergoing a revolution for more than two decades. Independence will not complete the revolution but will give it impetus.

Jamaica has achieved national independence, has shaken off the yoke of the British Colonial Office, has improved the living standards of its people, and established self-government under a system of parliamentary democracy based upon universal adult suffrage, without bloodshed.

The Jamaican can be allowed his boast that his revolution "has been the only revolution in the last three decades that has in fact extended freedom in the Western sense of the term, rather than exchanged one form of dictatorship for another form."

Sir Alexander Bustamente, who will be Jamaica's premier, plans to put his country into the British Commonwealth, the United Nations, the Organization of American States and the International Monetary Fund. On a possible U.N. veto by Soviet Russia, "Busta" declares: "We are pro-American. If by being pro-American we are vetoed, that's our decision. . . We are anti-Communist because we are. If the United States were pro-Communist, we would still be anti-Communist."

THE UNITED STATES has many reasons to welcome the emergence of a firmly anti-Communist island nation only 90 miles from Castro's Cuba. Aside from hemispheric solidarity, the United States has specific adjacent interests in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Panama Canal.

Bustamente desires a treaty with the United States guaranteeing military protection. Under an agreement of Feb. 10, 1961, we retain our rent-free World War II bases on the island.

The United States is a principal purchaser of bauxite produced in Jamaica, also of its other chief exports, sugar and bananas. Beauxite is the only strategic export of the area, and this country takes about 48 per cent of it.

Jamaica has been promised U.S. economic assistance. Last year aid to the West Indies area as a whole came to about $2.3 million.

ABOUT 18 PER CENT of Jamaica's labor force is unemployed, but under the island's industrial development program, economic growth is keeping ahead of population growth. Even so, the island suffers some of the most grinding poverty in the entire Commonwealth. But things are looking up. In 1950 gross domestic product at factor cost was $196.2 million; by 1960 it had risen to $644 million. Per capital income in 1960 was $358 as against $332 in 1959.

In a world growing constantly more color-conscious, Jamaica represents a model of integration. Except for the remnants of the old "plantocracy," most Jamaicans are of mixed blood. And except for a few marihuana-smoking Rastafaris, who want to lead Jamaica's Negroes back to Africa, there is no real racial animosity.

Odd Facts

The electric utilities industry, which had a record year in 1960, has increased its lead in generating capability over the Soviet Union by 6,300,000 kilowatts. This increases the spread between the two nations to 127,300,000 kilowatts from 121,000,000 a year ago.

If the wood used in the United States in one year were stacked to cover an average city block, the pile would reach into outer space for 463 miles.

Forest industries seeded and planted 545,602 acres of new forests during the 1961-62 planting season.

County school and health officials had filed suit for an injunction to stop Delauter Coal Co. of North Lima from stripping a section which would eliminate a 2,100-foot drainage ditch deemed important to the schools sanitary sewer system. The petition claimed the stripping operation also would threaten the well which provides the school's water supply.

Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr., arbitrated the settlement. It calls for the coal company to keep operations 25 feet from the drainage ditch, build a culvert and drill an auxiliary well for the school.

When The Kids Are Away 'Brumus' Likes To Stray

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most dogs get lonesome when the kids are away on vacation. Brumus is no exception.

So Brumus, a husky 100-pound Labrador, has been going to the office with his master, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"With the children gone he gets lonely," Kennedy told some visitors the other day, "so I bring him to the office with me and he gets pretty secretaries to take him for a walk."

And that explains the pretty secretaries walking the streets around the Department of Justice, being led by a big black shaggy dog.

Brumus was missing one day this week, and there was the attorney general of the United States, stalking through the maze of corridors, whistling for his dog. Brumus was found in the FBI section.

That same day Brumus wedged his way under Kennedy's desk as the attorney general was taking part in a question and answer exchange with some Brazilian students.

Without skipping a beat, Kennedy poured water into an ashtray and slid it under the desk to the thirsty Brumus.

There's a $50 fine and 30 days in jail for anyone convicted of bringing animals, other than guide dogs for the blind, into government buildings.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach was asked about it. Without batting an eye, he ruled, "Brumus must be a Seeing Eye Dog."

In 1837, Texas petitioned for annexation to the United States.

In 1916, the United States bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million.

In 1941, Japanese shipping to the United States was suspended.

In 1945, President Truman signed the Bretton Woods legislation whereby the United States became the first country ready to join the World Bank.

Today's birthday:

Former hockey star Maurice Richard is 41.

Thought for today:

Strip Mine Operation Is Kept From School

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—An out-of-court settlement in a dispute over strip mining rights at Petersburg will enable Springfield High School in the Mahoning County community to open on schedule.

County school and health officials had filed suit for an injunction to stop Delauter Coal Co. of North Lima from stripping a section which would eliminate a 2,100-foot drainage ditch deemed important to the schools sanitary sewer system. The petition claimed the stripping operation also would threaten the well which provides the school's water supply.

Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden Jr., arbitrated the settlement. It calls for the coal company to keep operations 25 feet from the drainage ditch, build a culvert and drill an auxiliary well for the school.

Songhai is the language of the people of Timbuktu. It is not related to any other African language but resembles English in the simplicity of its grammar.

When The Kids Are Away 'Brumus' Likes To Stray

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most dogs get lonesome when the kids are away on vacation. Brumus is no exception.

So Brumus, a husky 100-pound Labrador, has been going to the office with his master, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"With the children gone he gets lonely," Kennedy told some visitors the other day, "so I bring him to the office with me and he gets pretty secretaries to take him for a walk."

And that explains the pretty secretaries walking the streets around the Department of Justice, being led by a big black shaggy dog.

Brumus was missing one day this week, and there was the attorney general of the United States, stalking through the maze of corridors, whistling for his dog. Brumus was found in the FBI section.

That same day Brumus wedged his way under Kennedy's desk as the attorney general was taking part in a question and answer exchange with some Brazilian students.

Without skipping a beat, Kennedy poured water into an ashtray and slid it under the desk to the thirsty Brumus.

There's a $50 fine and 30 days in jail for anyone convicted of bringing animals, other than guide dogs for the blind, into government buildings.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach was asked about it. Without batting an eye, he ruled, "Brumus must be a Seeing Eye Dog."

Barged At New Terminal

India Molasses Shipped To City

OPENING A VALVE that will start a shipment of blackstrap molasses flowing from a barge into a huge storage tank along River Rd. are L. W. Hitchcock Jr., left, and Victor Swift, officers of the newly-organized Myers Molasses Co. Inc., which received its first shipment of the brown liquid today from India, via the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers. The molasses is steam-heated to 98 degrees before pumping to prevent it from solidifying. The shipment arrived at the East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal Co.

A newly-organized firm that will serve the Tri-State Area received its first shipment today of blackstrap molasses from India, with the arrival of a barge containing 1,451 tons of the product at the East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal on the River Rd.

Used by feed mills in the manufacture of livestock food, the molasses was shipped here in a new, $195,000 tank barge insulated to keep the product at high temperatures to facilitate pumping operations.

A by-product of sugar cane, the molasses is pumped into a 670,000-gallon tank at the River-Rail Terminal and shipped by tank trucks to feed mills in the area. The shipment that arrived here is worth $45,000 and the journey was made from India by cargo ship to New Orleans, where it was pumped into the barge for its trip up the Ohio River.

The new firm is Myers Molasses Co., Inc., headquartered in Alliance. The company is a combination of H. L. Myers Sales & Service of Alliance, East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal, Petroleum Solvents Co. of Butler, and Thomas Petroleum Transit, Inc.

Officers are Victor Swift of Alliance, president; L. W. Hitchcock Jr. of Butler, vice president; Marion Snowden of Alliance, secretary, and J. F. Lamb of Butler, treasurer.

Swift is also head of River-Rail Terminal Co. The terminal will handle storage of the molasses, and other allied products. Blackstrap molasses is produced in many areas of the world, including India, the Philippines, The Caribbean Sea countries and Africa. The brown, sugary liquid is edible, but not generally considered human fare except in health diets.

Department Stunned

Fireman Plumley First Dead In Duty Since 1907

Stunned, grief-stricken firemen mourned the loss of their fellow-firefighter, Richard J. Plumley, the first member of the department to die in actual performance of duty in 55 years.

He was one of four killed by sewer gas in the Henry Ave. cesspool tragedy Thursday night.

Checking the department records Chief Charles Bryan found the 28-year-old fireman was the first to give his life since Chief Clinton Morley died in August 1907 of smoke inhalation while directing the fighting of a fire at a Dresden Ave. meat market.

George Betteridge, another fireman, plunged to his death in December 1905 when he was electrocuted or fell from a utility pole while working on the city's fire alarm system, Chief Bryan said.

The father of three young children, Mr. Plumley joined the department July 1, 1958 when he was appointed with several others during the administration of Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen joined today in expressing sympathy to the families of the three men and a youth who lost their lives from septic tank fumes Thursday night.

"The director joins me in the expression of our deep sorrow at this tragic accident and extending our deepest sympathy to the bereaved families," the mayor said.

"In the death of Fireman Richard J. Plumley, the city has lost a fine, brave man on its fire department. He lost his life in line of duty while doing his utmost to save others. No man can show greater courage. His actions reflect the highest credit on the East Liverpool fire department."

The mayor also announced that city employes will meet at City Hall Sunday at 6:45 p.m. to proceed to the Martin Funeral Home in a group to pay last respects to Fireman Plumley.

Bids

wide street. As Council already has agreed the city will assume half the cost, that cuts the householder's obligation to 35 cents. Since the cost is based on frontage on both sides of any street, the cost per front foot on one side would boil down to about 17½ cents.

Tri-State's July 13 bid was rejected by the Board of Control after Owen consulted with Council. The councilmen said they believed the city should seek new bids in hopes of receiving more than one offer.

The total cost of Tri-State's July 13 bid was given as $7,700. Ohio Tar's offer, filed yesterday, totals $7,000. Ohio Valley Paving Corp.'s price figures out to $7,280.

Mayor Goodballet said the board probably will meet today to act on the bids, as Owen will be out of town on vacation all next week. The mayor said there is little doubt the contract will go to the Canton concern because of the fact it submitted the low bid and is a reputable firm.

Each of the concerns submitted breakdowns on the cost of labor and material. Ohio Tar said its price is made up of 27 cents per square yard for material and 8 cents for labor. Ohio Valley said its bid is figured at 11.4 cents per square yard for labor and 25 cents for material. Tri-State's offer was given as 13.25 cents per square yard for labor and 25.25 cents for material.

Council already has appropriated $4,000 from city income tax revenue as the municipality's share of the program.

Councilmen said many neighborhood groups already have circulated petitions, ready to request the improvement formally as soon as a contract is let and the program's details are worked out.

If public response warrants, Council has indicated it will appropriate another $4,000 — doubling the size of the program.

The program calls for a so-called "triple bituminous surface treatment" of three applications, each applied as quickly as the last dries. The city's specifications call for completion by Oct. 1.

Driver, 18, Penalized By Salineville Mayor

SALINEVILLE — Lee Delbert Rowe, 18, of R.D., cited after his pickup truck rammed a halted auto in the East End Wednesday, was given a suspended fine and ordered not to drive in the village for six months Friday by Mayor Stanley Fitch.

Rowe had been detained at the Lisbon Jail Thursday night after he became angry at a hearing and was told to post bond, which he was unable to do.

Rowe's pickup truck hit the rear of an auto operated by Gary Hogue, 18, of R. D., and he was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance. Mayor Fitch suspended a $50 fine.

Judge Orders East End Club Close Earlier

Earlier closing hours for the Veterans Social Club were ordered Friday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon after the East End club was unable to obtain a policeman for duty as specified by the judge previously this week.

Judge Sharp, rejecting a petition to have the club padlocked as a "public nuisance," set up conditions of probation for the organization to meet, including hiring of an East Liverpool police officer for the club from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. each night it operated.

Advised that the club was unable to obtain the services of an officer, Judge Sharp yesterday ordered the club to close at 10 p.m., DST, Sundays through Thursdays — four hours earlier than its permit provides.

On Fridays and Saturdays, the judge ruled, the club may stay open until midnight, DST.

Prosecutor William Brokaw had requested the padlock action, citing the club's record of liquor law violations and various instances of fights and cuttings.

In granting the probation, the judge ordered payment of the wages of a city officer to be stationed at the club.

The officer was to have required patrons to be quiet and orderly entering and leaving the club, prevent couples from occupying parked cars in the area and prevent drinking outside the club.

Blast Strikes At 34 Houses

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Blackened chimneys and ash-covered foundations are all that remain of 11 homes on a quiet Kansas City residential street. Twenty-three others show fire and blast damage.

A 30-inch natural gas main burst Friday at the intersection of 46th and Wyoming, a few blocks northwest of the Country Club Plaza.

For 10 minutes gas spouted from the 15-foot-deep crater, saturating the area of small, neat homes.

Then something ignited the gas and flames shot 150 feet high and enveloped the neighborhood.

Those 10 minutes had given the residents time to flee. Only four persons were injured, none severely.

The blazing inferno spread from house to house.

Officials of the Gas Service Co. said they didn't know what caused the big main to burst. Also shattered was an eight-inch distribution gas line.

John R. Fitzgerald was driving along Wyoming Street when the main broke.

"All of a sudden the street opened up in front of me," he said. "There was a loud hissing noise."

Fitzgerald and Police Sgt. Dan Breece, who also happened by, ran up and down the street yelling for everyone to get out.

Hutton Clarifies Planned Chester Flat Water Rates

Chester's proposed flat rates for all water users, which may supplant the present partly-metered system, would be less than the typical rates mentioned at a meeting of Council Wednesday, Councilman Wayne Hutton said today.

Hutton, chairman of the water and sewer committee, said the rates listed at the meeting were an "example" of some rates set up by the Public Service Commission, and will be used as a comparison for rates to be proposed for Chester.

He said some residents had the incorrect impression that the rates described would apply to Chester.

Council approved a planned survey of homes and business in the city to determine water facilities and the number of customers as a prelude to setting up the flat rate plan for all customers.

At present, a flat rate is applied only to those homes without meters.

Hutton said the survey sheets probably will be printed next week, and the house-to-house survey by water department workers will begin shortly after that. The survey will take about two weeks, he said.

Struthers Man Found Dead Under Wheel

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The body of Otis B. Zirkle, 36, of Struthers was found Friday night under the front wheel of a car in a tavern parking lot in nearby Poland.

He was dead on arrival at a hospital, where authorities said he apparently died of a crushed chest.

Police said a bartender discovered the body when he went outside to see why a back wheel of the car was jutting into the roadway.

Investigators were unable to explain how Zirkle got there. They said he wasn't fixing a tire and the key in the car's ignition switch was in the off position. The car belongs to Zirkle's wife, they said.

Parade Held At Calcutta Draws 1,200

A crowd of about 1,200 viewed the Calcutta volunteer fire department's annual parade Friday night in the St. Clair Township community.

The parade climaxed a benefit carnival week, with proceeds to be used towards purchase of a new fire truck. The carnival will end tonight. There is no children's matinee today.

Judges for the parade were Ray Wilson of East End, Kenneth Schneidmiller, Liverpool Township, West, fireman, and J. W Boyd and these units won prizes:

Budget's Up For Township

A tentative budget of $30,957 for 1963 was set by the Madison Township trustees Thursday night.

The budget, to be submitted to the Columbiana County Budget Commission for approval, is up somewhat from the approximate $30,000 for the present year because of increased revenue from state highway fund sources, Regis Scharf, clerk, explained.

In other action, the trustees authorized procedures for the purchase of a new truck to replace a 1955 model. The move to advertise for bids is to be submitted to county commissioners.

The trustees also authorized purchase of a chain saw and agreed to attend an organization meeting of a planned County Civil Defense organization to determine if the township will take part.

Next meeting is Aug. 16.

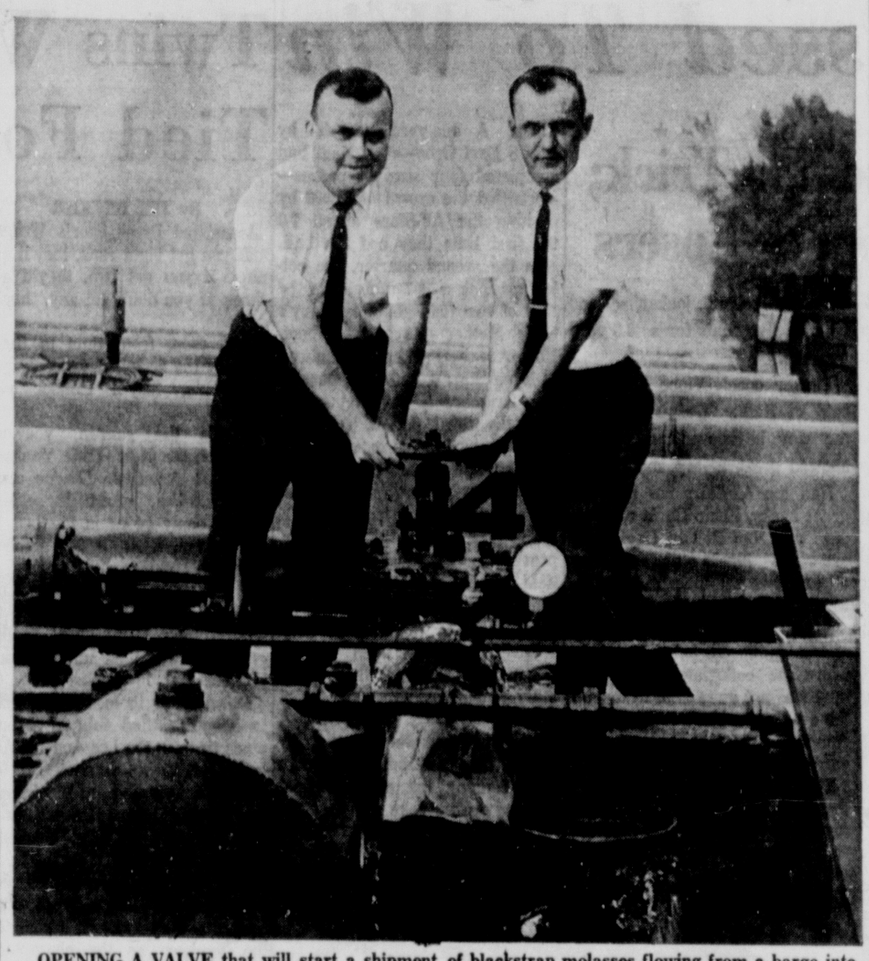
Barged At New Terminal

India Molasses Shipped To City



OPENING A VALVE that will start a shipment of blackstrap molasses flowing from a barge into a huge storage tank along River Rd. are L. W. Hitchcock Jr., left, and Victor Swift, officers of the newly-organized Myers Molasses Co. Inc., which received its first shipment of the brown liquid today from India, via the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers. The molasses is steam-heated to 98 degrees before pumping to prevent it from solidifying. The shipment arrived at the East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal Co.

A newly-organized firm that will serve the Tri-State Area received its first shipment today of blackstrap molasses from India, with the arrival of a barge containing 1,451 tons of the product at the East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal on the River Rd.

Used by feed mills in the manufacture of livestock food, the molasses was shipped here in a new, $195,000 tank barge insulated to keep the product at high temperatures to facilitate pumping operations.

A by-product of sugar cane, the molasses is pumped into a 670,000-gallon tank at the River-Rail Terminal and shipped by tank trucks to feed mills in the area. The shipment that arrived here is worth $45,000 and the journey was made from India by cargo ship to New Orleans, where it was pumped into the barge for its trip up the Ohio River.

The new firm is Myers Molasses Co., Inc., headquartered in Alliance. The company is a combination of H. L. Myers Sales & Service of Alliance, East Liverpool River-Rail Terminal, Petroleum Solvents Co. of Butler, and Thomas Petroleum Transit, Inc.

Officers are Victor Swift of Alliance, president; L. W. Hitchcock Jr. of Butler, vice president; Marion Snowden of Alliance, secretary, and J. F. Lamb of Butler, treasurer.

Swift is also head of River-Rail Terminal Co. The terminal will handle storage of the molasses, and other allied products. Blackstrap molasses is produced in many areas of the world, including India, the Philippines, The Caribbean Sea countries and Africa. The brown, sugary liquid is edible, but not generally considered human fare except in health diets.

Department Stunned

Fireman Plumley First Dead In Duty Since 1907

Stunned, grief-stricken firemen mourned the loss of their fellow-firefighter, Richard J. Plumley, the first member of the department to die in actual performance of duty in 55 years.

He was one of four killed by sewer gas in the Henry Ave. cesspool tragedy Thursday night.

Checking the department records Chief Charles Bryan found the 28-year-old fireman was the first to give his life since Chief Clinton Morley died in August 1907 of smoke inhalation while directing the fighting of a fire at a Dresden Ave. meat market.

George Betteridge, another fireman, plunged to his death in December 1905 when he was electrocuted or fell from a utility pole while working on the city's fire alarm system, Chief Bryan said.

The father of three young children, Mr. Plumley joined the department July 1, 1958 when he was appointed with several others during the administration of Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen joined today in expressing sympathy to the families of the three men and a youth who lost their lives from septic tank fumes Thursday night.

"The director joins me in the expression of our deep sorrow at this tragic accident and extending our deepest sympathy to the bereaved families," the mayor said.

"In the death of Fireman Richard J. Plumley, the city has lost a fine, brave man on its fire department. He lost his life in line of duty while doing his utmost to save others. No man can show greater courage. His actions reflect the highest credit on the East Liverpool fire department."

The mayor also announced that city employes will meet at City Hall Sunday at 6:45 p.m. to proceed to the Martin Funeral Home in a group to pay last respects to Fireman Plumley.

Bids

wide street. As Council already has agreed the city will assume half the cost, that cuts the householder's obligation to 35 cents. Since the cost is based on frontage on both sides of any street, the cost per front foot on one side would boil down to about 17½ cents.

Tri-State's July 13 bid was rejected by the Board of Control after Owen consulted with Council. The councilmen said they believed the city should seek new bids in hopes of receiving more than one offer.

The total cost of Tri-State's July 13 bid was given as $7,700. Ohio Tar's offer, filed yesterday, totals $7,000. Ohio Valley Paving Corp.'s price figures out to $7,280.

Mayor Goodballet said the board probably will meet today to act on the bids, as Owen will be out of town on vacation all next week. The mayor said there is little doubt the contract will go to the Canton concern because of the fact it submitted the low bid and is a reputable firm.

Each of the concerns submitted breakdowns on the cost of labor and material. Ohio Tar said its price is made up of 27 cents per square yard for material and 8 cents for labor. Ohio Valley said its bid is figured at 11.4 cents per square yard for labor and 25 cents for material. Tri-State's offer was given as 13.25 cents per square yard for labor and 25.25 cents for material.

Council already has appropriated $4,000 from city income tax revenue as the municipality's share of the program.

Councilmen said many neighborhood groups already have circulated petitions, ready to request the improvement formally as soon as a contract is let and the program's details are worked out.

If public response warrants, Council has indicated it will appropriate another $4,000 — doubling the size of the program.

The program calls for a so-called "triple bituminous surface treatment" of three applications, each applied as quickly as the last dries. The city's specifications call for completion by Oct. 1.

Driver, 18, Penalized By Salineville Mayor

SALINEVILLE — Lee Delbert Rowe, 18, of R.D., cited after his pickup truck rammed a halted auto in the East End Wednesday, was given a suspended fine and ordered not to drive in the village for six months Friday by Mayor Stanley Fitch.

Rowe had been detained at the Lisbon Jail Thursday night after he became angry at a hearing and was told to post bond, which he was unable to do.

Rowe's pickup truck hit the rear of an auto operated by Gary Hogue, 18, of R. D., and he was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance. Mayor Fitch suspended a $50 fine.

Judge Orders East End Club Close Earlier

Earlier closing hours for the Veterans Social Club were ordered Friday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon after the East End club was unable to obtain a policeman for duty as specified by the judge previously this week.

Judge Sharp, rejecting a petition to have the club padlocked as a "public nuisance," set up conditions of probation for the organization to meet, including hiring of an East Liverpool police officer for the club from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. each night it operated.

Advised that the club was unable to obtain the services of an officer, Judge Sharp yesterday ordered the club to close at 10 p.m., DST, Sundays through Thursdays — four hours earlier than its permit provides.

On Fridays and Saturdays, the judge ruled, the club may stay open until midnight, DST.

Prosecutor William Brokaw had requested the padlock action, citing the club's record of liquor law violations and various instances of fights and cuttings.

In granting the probation, the judge ordered payment of the wages of a city officer to be stationed at the club.

The officer was to have required patrons to be quiet and orderly entering and leaving the club, prevent couples from occupying parked cars in the area and prevent drinking outside the club.

Blast Strikes At 34 Houses

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Blackened chimneys and ash-covered foundations are all that remain of 11 homes on a quiet Kansas City residential street. Twenty-three others show fire and blast damage.

A 30-inch natural gas main burst Friday at the intersection of 46th and Wyoming, a few blocks northwest of the Country Club Plaza.

For 10 minutes gas spouted from the 15-foot-deep crater, saturating the area of small, neat homes.

Then something ignited the gas and flames shot 150 feet high and enveloped the neighborhood.

Those 10 minutes had given the residents time to flee. Only four persons were injured, none severely.

The blazing inferno spread from house to house.

Officials of the Gas Service Co. said they didn't know what caused the big main to burst. Also shattered was an eight-inch distribution gas line.

John R. Fitzgerald was driving along Wyoming Street when the main broke.

"All of a sudden the street opened up in front of me," he said. "There was a loud hissing noise."

Fitzgerald and Police Sgt. Dan Breece, who also happened by, ran up and down the street yelling for everyone to get out.

Hutton Clarifies Planned Chester Flat Water Rates

Chester's proposed flat rates for all water users, which may supplant the present partly-metered system, would be less than the typical rates mentioned at a meeting of Council Wednesday, Councilman Wayne Hutton said today.

Hutton, chairman of the water and sewer committee, said the rates listed at the meeting were an "example" of some rates set up by the Public Service Commission, and will be used as a comparison for rates to be proposed for Chester.

He said some residents had the incorrect impression that the rates described would apply to Chester.

Council approved a planned survey of homes and business in the city to determine water facilities and the number of customers as a prelude to setting up the flat rate plan for all customers.

At present, a flat rate is applied only to those homes without meters.

Hutton said the survey sheets probably will be printed next week, and the house-to-house survey by water department workers will begin shortly after that. The survey will take about two weeks, he said.

Struthers Man Found Dead Under Wheel

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The body of Otis B. Zirkle, 36, of Struthers was found Friday night under the front wheel of a car in a tavern parking lot in nearby Poland.

He was dead on arrival at a hospital, where authorities said he apparently died of a crushed chest.

Police said a bartender discovered the body when he went outside to see why a back wheel of the car was jutting into the roadway.

Investigators were unable to explain how Zirkle got there. They said he wasn't fixing a tire and the key in the car's ignition switch was in the off position. The car belongs to Zirkle's wife, they said.

A tentative budget of $30,957 for 1963 was set by the Madison Township trustees Thursday night.

The budget, to be submitted to the Columbiana County Budget Commission for approval, is up somewhat from the approximate $30,000 for the present year because of increased revenue from state highway fund sources, Regis Scharf, clerk, explained.

In other action, the trustees authorized procedures for the purchase of a new truck to replace a 1955 model. The move to advertise for bids is to be submitted to county commissioners.

The trustees also authorized purchase of a chain saw and agreed to attend an organization meeting of a planned County Civil Defense organization to determine if the township will take part.

Drysdale Wins No. 20; Yanks Stretch Their Lead To 6½

Dodgers 5 Ahead; Bucs Beat Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's 20 down and 10 to go for Don Drysdale, who's given the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers their largest bulge of the season while taking another giant step toward becoming the major leagues' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean.

Drysdale, a fireballing 26-year-old right-hander who never had won more than 17 and had only nine victories at this point in 1961, shook o f a shaky first inning Friday night to defeat the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and become the first 20-game winner of the season.

Drysdale also entered these pertinent statistics in his log:

—He is ahead of the pace set by the last two pitchers to close in on the 30-game mark achieved by Dean in 1934. Don Newcombe of the Dodgers reached the 20-victory mark on Aug. 23 en route to a 27-7 season in 1956. Robin Roberts, who posted a 28-7 log for Philadelphia in 1952, won No. 20 on Aug. 19.

—He has won 10 straight—tying the longest streak of the season.

—He has gone 46 1-3 innings—more than five games—without issuing a single walk.

The triumph gave the Dodgers a five-game bulge over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who lost their fifth in six games, 5-2 to Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati's defending champions remained 8½ back in third place by outslugging New York 8-6 for their 14th victory in 16 games despite two homers by the Mets' Frank Thomas. Thomas' 24th and 25th homers, giving him six in three consecutive games, tied a major league record.

In the only other NL game played, Houston belted St. Louis 8-3. The Philadelphia-Milwaukee game was rained out.

The Cubs tagged Drysdale (20-4) for three runs and four hits in the first inning, but Drysdale allowed only four harmless hits the rest of the way. The Dodgers finally took over in the third when Ron Fairly doubled home one run and Frank Howard followed with his single off Cal Koonce (9-4).

The Pirates, who wound up with 16 hits off four Giant pitchers, started early, getting to Juan Marichal (13-8) for single runs in the second and third. Howie Goss' two-run homer was the big blow as the Pirates put it out of reach with three in the fourth. Al McBean (11-7), who gave up a homer to Willie McCovey, won it with relief help from Diomedes Olivo and Elroy Face.

Unfortunately for the Mets, both of Thomas' homers came with the bases empty off Joey Jay 16-9, who needed help from both Reds' relief specialists — Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry—to move within four victories of the 20 mark. Thomas' home run salvo tied the mark held by Tony Lazzeri, Gus Zernial and Ralph Kiner. Marv Throneberry and Clarence Coleman also connected for the Mets while Gordie Coleman and Don Blasingame homered for t h e Reds. Jay Hook (7-11) took the loss.

Carl Warwick turned on his former Cardinal mates and led Houston's 15-hit offensive with a 4-for-4 performance, including a two-run homer and four runs batted in. Ken Johnson (6-12) was the winner despite homers by Curt Flood and Charley James, who hit a two-run pinch-hit shot.

Packers Pressed To Win

Starr's Passes Do Trick; Hadl Shines For Losers

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The mighty Green Bay Packers won by as wide a margin as expected, but certainly not as easily as expected over a tough, speedy college All-Star team in Soldier Field Friday night.

Stiffened by the passing of John Hadl of Kansas, the collegians made it a battle until a 21-point final period Green Bay barrage buried them under a 42-20 score in the 29th annual All-Star game.

The champions of the National Football League led only 21-20 going into the final quarter. It took a record-breaking performance by Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr to finally break the backs of the charged up All-Stars.

Starr hurled five touchdown passes, including a pair each to Boyd Dowler and Max McGee, setting a new mark in this colorful grid series, now standing 19 to 8 in favor of the pros with 2 ties.

The All-Star of the night in this nationally televised contest was Hadl, a cool, poised and agile all-around back who should be a rookie hotshot for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League this season.

Hadl completed his first five passes, four of them setting up the first All-Star touchdown that gave the collegians a surprising 7-0 jump in the opening period.

Some observers guessed that the turning point of the game might have been the removal of the hot Kansas performer in the second period.

Hadl returned to the game later, but the All-Stars never seemed to regain the spark they had under the Jayhawker star in the first period.

Hadl completed 6 of 10 passes in all, had the Packers in a stew with his rollout jockeying and boomed five punts for a 48.8 yard average.

Packer coach Vince Lombardi said of Hadl: "He surprised us the way he moved around. He showed great agility and poise."

Had the All-Stars not lost two great backs, Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Ron Bull of Baylor, by pre-game illness the Packers might have had their backs to the wall all the way.

As it was, the All-Star ground attack produced only 68 yards, while the collegiate passing attack was not quite able to muster the deadly accuracy of Starr, who completed 13 of 22 tosses for 255 yards and five touchdowns.

The All-Stars led the vaunted Packers no fewer than three times. A one-yard smash by LSU'S Earl Gros—after Hadl had completed four straight passes—electrified the crowd of 65,000 by pushing the All-Stars ahead 7-0 the first time they had the ball.

In the second quarter, the collegians took a 10-7 margin on the first of two field goals by Navy's Greg Mather — a 26-yard boot. However, the Packers went ahead 14-10 on Starr's four-yard pass to Ron Kramer.

In the third period, an upset still appeared in the making when Hadl hit Ohio State's Charley Bryant with a 22-yard scoring shot for a 17-14 All-Star lead.

The final All-Star bid, however, proved to be Mather's 14-yard field goal late in the third period, shaving Green Bay's margin to 21-20.

Early in the fourth period, Green Bay wrapped it up with Starr firing touchdown passes of 20 and 35 yards to McGee. A three-yard touchdown thrust by Green Bay's Elijah Pitts with time running out put the final frosting on the cake.

Twins Win Again; Tied For Second

If you get eight runs, they'll get nine. If you get two, they'll get three. If you don't get any, they'll get one.

And then, from time to time, to vary the script, if you only get a couple, they'll clobber you with 10.

That's the year-in, year-out story of the New York Yankees and their American League competitors. The pattern is seldom broken—only twice in the last 14 years—and it is being stitched again this season.

The Yankees bombed the Chicago White Sox, 10-2, Friday to stretch their league lead to 6½ games. It was their ninth victory in their last 10 games.

Down below them, the Minnesota Twins battled into a second place tie with the Los Angeles Angels. The Twins dumped Detroit 7-4. Baltimore whipped the Angels 6-3. Cleveland topped the Kansas City Athletics, 1-0, and Washington beat Boston 2-1.

Tom Tresh, with a homer and a double, and Hector Lopez, with four hits, were Friday's heroes for the Yankees as the champions launched a 14-hit attack off Juan Pizzaro and three successors.

Significantly, shortstop Tresh and left-fielder Lopez are the two players considered most likely candidates to move out of the lineup to make way for Tony Kubek, the league's all-star shortstop last year, who reports to the Yankees from the Army today.

Ralph Terry got his 15th win for the Yanks.

Jack Kralik went the route or the Twins, giving up only three hits. But two of them were homers, by Steve Boros for three runs and a solo shot by Bubba Morton. Harmon Killebrew was the big gun for the Twins with an enormous home run and a run-scoring single. Lenny Green's squib single through the pulled-in infield in the eigth got the tie-breaking runs across.

The Orioles, held scoreless over six innings by lefty Ken McBride of the Angels to run McBride's scoreless string to 27, erupted for six runs in the seventh. McBride (11-4) got his first loss since April 27. He had won 10 straight.

Dick Donovan, 34, a right-hander having a great year for Cleveland, ran his record to 15-4 as he recorded his fourth shutout of the season, scattering eight hits against the hard-hitting Athletics. Donovan didn't walk a man, running his walkless streak to 20 innings.

Runs were scarce at Boston, as is often the case, as the Senators got their pair in the fifth on a walk and three singles. The Red Sox got a run off starter Don Rudolph in the eighth, but Jim Hannah relieved to end the threat.

Central Beats Lawyers, 6-2

Central Service kept alive faint hopes of making the playoff series of the Colt League by turning back the Lawyers, 6-2, in action Friday.

Punching across four runs in the seventh inning to break a 2-2 tie, Central disposed of the first-half champions b e h i n d Bowersock's five-hit pitching.

League-leading Riverview Florists and Friendly Bowling w i l l meet tonight at 6 at Colt Field, and Sunday's concluding game of the season at 2 p.m. pits Central Service against the Lawyers.

The second half would end in a tie should Riverview lose tonight, and Central Service win on Sunday. But a win by Riverview tonight would clinch the second half championship, and place R i v e r view against the Lawyers in the league playoff Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p.m.

A game is slated Aug. 12 at 6 p.m. between All-Star teams comprised of 15-year-olds, and 16-year-olds. Trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the game.

American Football Loop Starts Exhibition Tilts

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The no-longer fledgling American Football League, a circuit that has fought for recognition for two years, gets the jump on the venerable National Football league tonight.

Houston's Oilers, the only champions the AFL has known, trot out their 1962 entry, minus star quarterback George Blanda, for an exhibition game with the New York Titans at Houston. Blanda Oilers because of an operation for won't start the season with the thyroid trouble.

The Titans, under a new coach —Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, all-time great of the Chicago Bears—could make Houston's start a keen disappointment. The Titans bulge with veterans and topflight rookie material and are talking about Jim Tiller, the track-fast halfback from Purdue who runs like the wind.

The Dallas Texans, disconsolate over poor showings in the first two years of the league but bright with hope for the future from the finest array of rookies of any club in the circuit, meet Oakland, the perennial last-placers, at Atlanta in another Saturday night game.

The NFL has no exhibition games until next weekend when the Green Bay Packers meet the Dallas Cowboys at Dallas Friday night.

Drysdale Wins No. 20; Yanks Stretch Their Lead To 6½

Dodgers 5 Ahead; Bucs Beat Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's 20 down and 10 to go for Don Drysdale, who's given the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers their largest bulge of the season while taking another giant step toward becoming the major leagues' first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean.

Drysdale, a fireballing 26-year-old right-hander who never had won more than 17 and had only nine victories at this point in 1961, shook o f a shaky first inning Friday night to defeat the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and become the first 20-game winner of the season.

Drysdale also entered these pertinent statistics in his log:

—He is ahead of the pace set by the last two pitchers to close in on the 30-game mark achieved by Dean in 1934. Don Newcombe of the Dodgers reached the 20-victory mark on Aug. 23 en route to a 27-7 season in 1956. Robin Roberts, who posted a 28-7 log for Philadelphia in 1952, won No. 20 on Aug. 19.

—He has won 10 straight—tying the longest streak of the season.

—He has gone 46 1-3 innings—more than five games—without issuing a single walk.

The triumph gave the Dodgers a five-game bulge over the second-place San Francisco Giants, who lost their fifth in six games, 5-2 to Pittsburgh.

Cincinnati's defending champions remained 8½ back in third place by outslugging New York 8-6 for their 14th victory in 16 games despite two homers by the Mets' Frank Thomas. Thomas' 24th and 25th homers, giving him six in three consecutive games, tied a major league record.

In the only other NL game played, Houston belted St. Louis 8-3. The Philadelphia-Milwaukee game was rained out.

The Cubs tagged Drysdale (20-4) for three runs and four hits in the first inning, but Drysdale allowed only four harmless hits the rest of the way. The Dodgers finally took over in the third when Ron Fairly doubled home one run and Frank Howard followed with his single off Cal Koonce (9-4).

The Pirates, who wound up with 16 hits off four Giant pitchers, started early, getting to Juan Marichal (13-8) for single runs in the second and third. Howie Goss' two-run homer was the big blow as the Pirates put it out of reach with three in the fourth. Al McBean (11-7), who gave up a homer to Willie McCovey, won it with relief help from Diomedes Olivo and Elroy Face.

Unfortunately for the Mets, both of Thomas' homers came with the bases empty off Joey Jay 16-9, who needed help from both Reds' relief specialists — Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry—to move within four victories of the 20 mark. Thomas' home run salvo tied the mark held by Tony Lazzeri, Gus Zernial and Ralph Kiner. Marv Throneberry and Clarence Coleman also connected for the Mets while Gordie Coleman and Don Blasingame homered for t h e Reds. Jay Hook (7-11) took the loss.

Carl Warwick turned on his former Cardinal mates and led Houston's 15-hit offensive with a 4-for-4 performance, including a two-run homer and four runs batted in. Ken Johnson (6-12) was the winner despite homers by Curt Flood and Charley James, who hit a two-run pinch-hit shot.

Packers Pressed To Win

Starr's Passes Do Trick; Hadl Shines For Losers

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The mighty Green Bay Packers won by as wide a margin as expected, but certainly not as easily as expected over a tough, speedy college All-Star team in Soldier Field Friday night.

Stiffened by the passing of John Hadl of Kansas, the collegians made it a battle until a 21-point final period Green Bay barrage buried them under a 42-20 score in the 29th annual All-Star game.

The champions of the National Football League led only 21-20 going into the final quarter. It took a record-breaking performance by Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr to finally break the backs of the charged up All-Stars.

Starr hurled five touchdown passes, including a pair each to Boyd Dowler and Max McGee, setting a new mark in this colorful grid series, now standing 19 to 8 in favor of the pros with 2 ties.

The All-Star of the night in this nationally televised contest was Hadl, a cool, poised and agile all-around back who should be a rookie hotshot for the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League this season.

Hadl completed his first five passes, four of them setting up the first All-Star touchdown that gave the collegians a surprising 7-0 jump in the opening period.

Some observers guessed that the turning point of the game might have been the removal of the hot Kansas performer in the second period.

Hadl returned to the game later, but the All-Stars never seemed to regain the spark they had under the Jayhawker star in the first period.

Hadl completed 6 of 10 passes in all, had the Packers in a stew with his rollout jockeying and boomed five punts for a 48.8 yard average.

Packer coach Vince Lombardi said of Hadl: "He surprised us the way he moved around. He showed great agility and poise."

Had the All-Stars not lost two great backs, Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Ron Bull of Baylor, by pre-game illness the Packers might have had their backs to the wall all the way.

As it was, the All-Star ground attack produced only 68 yards, while the collegiate passing attack was not quite able to muster the deadly accuracy of Starr, who completed 13 of 22 tosses for 255 yards and five touchdowns.

The All-Stars led the vaunted Packers no fewer than three times. A one-yard smash by LSU'S Earl Gros—after Hadl had completed four straight passes—electrified the crowd of 65,000 by pushing the All-Stars ahead 7-0 the first time they had the ball.

In the second quarter, the collegians took a 10-7 margin on the first of two field goals by Navy's Greg Mather — a 26-yard boot. However, the Packers went ahead 14-10 on Starr's four-yard pass to Ron Kramer.

In the third period, an upset still appeared in the making when Hadl hit Ohio State's Charley Bryant with a 22-yard scoring shot for a 17-14 All-Star lead.

The final All-Star bid, however, proved to be Mather's 14-yard field goal late in the third period, shaving Green Bay's margin to 21-20.

Early in the fourth period, Green Bay wrapped it up with Starr firing touchdown passes of 20 and 35 yards to McGee. A three-yard touchdown thrust by Green Bay's Elijah Pitts with time running out put the final frosting on the cake.

Central Beats Lawyers, 6-2

Central Service kept alive faint hopes of making the playoff series of the Colt League by turning back the Lawyers, 6-2, in action Friday.

Punching across four runs in the seventh inning to break a 2-2 tie, Central disposed of the first-half champions b e h i n d Bowersock's five-hit pitching.

League-leading Riverview Florists and Friendly Bowling w i l l meet tonight at 6 at Colt Field, and Sunday's concluding game of the season at 2 p.m. pits Central Service against the Lawyers.

The second half would end in a tie should Riverview lose tonight, and Central Service win on Sunday. But a win by Riverview tonight would clinch the second half championship, and place R i v e r view against the Lawyers in the league playoff Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 6 p.m.

A game is slated Aug. 12 at 6 p.m. between All-Star teams comprised of 15-year-olds, and 16-year-olds. Trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the game.

American Football Loop Starts Exhibition Tilts

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The no-longer fledgling American Football League, a circuit that has fought for recognition for two years, gets the jump on the venerable National Football league tonight.

Houston's Oilers, the only champions the AFL has known, trot out their 1962 entry, minus star quarterback George Blanda, for an exhibition game with the New York Titans at Houston. Blanda Oilers because of an operation for won't start the season with the thyroid trouble.

The Titans, under a new coach —Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, all-time great of the Chicago Bears—could make Houston's start a keen disappointment. The Titans bulge with veterans and topflight rookie material and are talking about Jim Tiller, the track-fast halfback from Purdue who runs like the wind.

The Dallas Texans, disconsolate over poor showings in the first two years of the league but bright with hope for the future from the finest array of rookies of any club in the circuit, meet Oakland, the perennial last-placers, at Atlanta in another Saturday night game.

The NFL has no exhibition games until next weekend when the Green Bay Packers meet the Dallas Cowboys at Dallas Friday night.

Dayton Mystery Deepens As Babysitter Vanishes

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Now a 17-year-old babysitter is missing, adding another angle of mystery to the Wednesday night disappearance of Dayton City Commissioner David Pottinger.

Police reported Friday night that Sherryl Lee VanderWiel, a frequent babysitter for Pottinger's two children, left her suburban Kettering home about 8:30 Friday morning, leaving a note which said she was "going away and will write."

According to police the girl withdrew $100 from a credit union at the Dayton Power & Light Co. where her mother, Sylvian, is employed. It was explained that members of an employe's family can belong to the credit group.

Pottinger, 26, disappeared after attending a City Commission meeting Wednesday night. He was believed to have had about $2,100 with him at the time.

Mrs. Eleanor Chittenden, Pottinger's mother, said her family and the VanderWiels had been friends for years. She said Sherryl had been upset by Pottinger's disappearance and had visited the family Thursday night.

Both Mrs. Chittenden and Kenneth VanderWiel, Sherryl's brother, said they had no reason to connect the girl's absence with Pottinger's disappearance.

Police said there was no mention of Pottinger in the note, but there was some indication of friction between the girl and her mother.

Sherryl, a high school senior, was described as 5-foot-7, weighing 125 pounds and having brown hair.

Theories of robbery and Pottinger's investigation into city crime have been advanced in the official's disappearance.

Montgomery County Prosecutor Paul Young said Pottinger was particularly interested in gambling activities in East Dayton. Pottinger's abandoned station wagon, blood stains on the gearshift and control panel, was found in the East Dayton area early Thursday morning.

Friday night investigators found a .38 caliber pistol, which appeared to have been fired, on a levee about a half-mile down the road from where the station wagon was discovered.

The commissioner's wife, Martha Jean, said she shared the belief that her husband's disappearance was connected with the crime probe.

The city commissioners have offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of anyone involved in the case, if a crime was committed.

'Want Clarence With Me,' Blind Ohio Man Declares

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—"Whatever happens, I want Clarence to stay with me always."

In his grief over the death of his wife, Harold Hathaway, 60, consoled himself by uttering these words as he clutched his 7-year-old son, Clarence, to his chest in a hospital corridor.

Clarence had been the eyes and ears of his parents. He did many of the household chores and helped with the shopping. Both his parents were deaf and blind—the mother, Georgia, 43, since birth. The father lost his sight in 1947 and has been deaf since he was 11.

Mrs. Hathaway, who had been hospitalized several times this this year because rheumatic fever had weakened her heart, confided to friends she only wanted to live until Clarence grew up. She died late Thursday in Akron General Hospital.

The Hathaways were unwilling central figures in a storm of publicity after Clarence, a normal child, was born. Welfare officials said they did not feel the boy could be reared in a three-dimensional world by a sightless, deaf couple.

A judge's ruling when Clarence was a month old allowed the Hathaways to rear him. The couple lived principally on aid to the blind, and the Visiting Nurse Association helped them rear the boy.

Mrs. Hathaway's reaction at the time that proposals were being made to take Clarence away from his natural parents was: "He's the only thing in my life I've ever had of my own. If I can't keep him I don't want to live."

The sad duty of telling the elder Hathaway that his wife had died fell upon Police Chief Ronald Harper of Stow, companion and friend of the Hathaways. At the hospital, the chief wrote with his finger upon Hathaway's palm: "She is dead." Hathaway then told his son.

Neighbors think the boy will stay with his father.

Annexation Case Set For Hearing

LISBON — County commissioners, at a meeting Thursday set Sept. 27 for a hearing on a petition from residents of parts of Sections 23 and 24 in Unity Township to have the territory annexed to East Palestine.

In a vote to the May primaries in the unincorporated areas of Unity Township on the annexation question, the proposal was defeated.

In other business, East Liverpool was given $30.50 for 61 dogs destroyed during July. Two adding machines were rented at $12.50 per month each from the Kennedy Office Supply Co. of East Liverpool for use in the reappraisal office until the new tax duplicate is completed.

Word has been received from the Ohio Civil War Centennial Commission on the commissioners' request to have the locomotive, "The General," for the special celebration of Morgan's Raid July 27, 1963. The Ohio group advised it would contact the Louisville and Nashville Lines concerning the appearance of the train and that the Columbiana request

Man In Entering Case Here Asks Probation

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon has ordered a probation investigation for John Goempel, 216 Haywood St., who switched his plea to guilty on charges of motor vehicle theft and malicious entry of the Caplan Scrap Yard on the River Rd.

Goempel and Thomas Henry Lawrence of Lisbon R. D. 3 each faced two charges in connection with the alleged theft of scrap metal, hauled away in the company's truck. Goempel pleaded not guilty at arraignment after he was indicted by the Grand Jury. Lawrence previously pleaded guilty and asked probation.

LISBON — Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said a total of 60 prisoners were received at the County Jail during July, in addition to the 41 already confined as of July 1.

Fifty-eight were released during the month, three were conveyed to state institutions and three to mental hospitals. There were 259 visitors.

A total of 3,787 meals were served at a cost of $1,000.79, making the average daily expense per prisoner 79.2 cents.

Steelers Scrimmage On Weirton Gridiron

WEIRTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers hold their first full-scale scrimmage today in the annual pre-season Alumni Day at Weirton High School Stadium.

Two veterans from last year's team will not play because of injuries. Fullback John Henry Johnston suffered a bruised knee Friday at the Steelers' nearby West Liberty State College training site.

Earlier in the week, end Red Mack came up with a shoulder separation that will keep him out of heavy action for a few weeks.

Coach Buddy Parker said he will use a different scoring system in the game. Since the contest matches the team's offensive unit against the defense, there will be no kickoffs or punting. But the offensive team will get points for first downs, pass completions and touchdowns, while the defense will make points by stopping first downs, getting pass interceptions and scoring touchdowns on pass interceptions.

The Steelers will play their first National Football League exhibition game next Saturday night against the Chicago Bears at Atlanta, Ga.

Court's Lenient To Probationer

Bobby Yeager, 31, of R. D. 1 was given another chance at probation Thursday afternoon at hearing before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon on a charge of violating several terms of his probation on an armed robbery charge.

Chief Probation Officer Richard Rose cited Yeager into court on a charge he became involved in an altercation with Wellsville police at Pop's Tavern. In giving Yeager another chance, Judge Sharp pointed out the district man had served five and a half years in Western Penitentiary in Pennsylvania on a Beaver County armed robbery charge.

After release from prison in Pennsylvania, Yeager pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of Allison's Golden Dawn Market on Pennsylvania Ave. He was placed on probation by Judge Sharp June 13, 1961. Judge Sharp said the only bad mark on Yeager's probation record stemmed from the Wellsville incident.

Dayton Mystery Deepens As Babysitter Vanishes

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Now a 17-year-old babysitter is missing, adding another angle of mystery to the Wednesday night disappearance of Dayton City Commissioner David Pottinger.

Police reported Friday night that Sherryl Lee VanderWiel, a frequent babysitter for Pottinger's two children, left her suburban Kettering home about 8:30 Friday morning, leaving a note which said she was "going away and will write."

According to police the girl withdrew $100 from a credit union at the Dayton Power & Light Co. where her mother, Sylvian, is employed. It was explained that members of an employe's family can belong to the credit group.

Pottinger, 26, disappeared after attending a City Commission meeting Wednesday night. He was believed to have had about $2,100 with him at the time.

Mrs. Eleanor Chittenden, Pottinger's mother, said her family and the VanderWiels had been friends for years. She said Sherryl had been upset by Pottinger's disappearance and had visited the family Thursday night.

Both Mrs. Chittenden and Kenneth VanderWiel, Sherryl's brother, said they had no reason to connect the girl's absence with Pottinger's disappearance.

Police said there was no mention of Pottinger in the note, but there was some indication of friction between the girl and her mother.

Sherryl, a high school senior, was described as 5-foot-7, weighing 125 pounds and having brown hair.

Theories of robbery and Pottinger's investigation into city crime have been advanced in the official's disappearance.

Montgomery County Prosecutor Paul Young said Pottinger was particularly interested in gambling activities in East Dayton. Pottinger's abandoned station wagon, blood stains on the gearshift and control panel, was found in the East Dayton area early Thursday morning.

Friday night investigators found a .38 caliber pistol, which appeared to have been fired, on a levee about a half-mile down the road from where the station wagon was discovered.

The commissioner's wife, Martha Jean, said she shared the belief that her husband's disappearance was connected with the crime probe.

The city commissioners have offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of anyone involved in the case, if a crime was committed.

'Want Clarence With Me,' Blind Ohio Man Declares

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—"Whatever happens, I want Clarence to stay with me always."

In his grief over the death of his wife, Harold Hathaway, 60, consoled himself by uttering these words as he clutched his 7-year-old son, Clarence, to his chest in a hospital corridor.

Clarence had been the eyes and ears of his parents. He did many of the household chores and helped with the shopping. Both his parents were deaf and blind—the mother, Georgia, 43, since birth. The father lost his sight in 1947 and has been deaf since he was 11.

Mrs. Hathaway, who had been hospitalized several times this this year because rheumatic fever had weakened her heart, confided to friends she only wanted to live until Clarence grew up. She died late Thursday in Akron General Hospital.

The Hathaways were unwilling central figures in a storm of publicity after Clarence, a normal child, was born. Welfare officials said they did not feel the boy could be reared in a three-dimensional world by a sightless, deaf couple.

A judge's ruling when Clarence was a month old allowed the Hathaways to rear him. The couple lived principally on aid to the blind, and the Visiting Nurse Association helped them rear the boy.

Mrs. Hathaway's reaction at the time that proposals were being made to take Clarence away from his natural parents was: "He's the only thing in my life I've ever had of my own. If I can't keep him I don't want to live."

The sad duty of telling the elder Hathaway that his wife had died fell upon Police Chief Ronald Harper of Stow, companion and friend of the Hathaways. At the hospital, the chief wrote with his finger upon Hathaway's palm: "She is dead." Hathaway then told his son.

Neighbors think the boy will stay with his father.

MULLENS, W. Va. (AP) — West Virginia American Legion baseball tournament action today saw Parkersburg and Williamson, both victorious in Friday's opening round of the double elimination affair, meeting at 3:30 p.m. First-day losers Weirton and Morgantown were to clash at 1 p.m.

Williamson used a two - out double in the bottom of the 11th by pitcher Bob Flatcher to defeat Morgantown 2-1 yesterday.

Earlier, Parkersburg totaled 14 hits off two Weirton moundsmen to take an 11-1 victory. The Wood County nine outhit Weirton 14 to 4.

Boyce Wins, 6-5

Boyce Methodist edged First Free Methodist, 6-5, in the YMCA Church Softball League Friday, with Bob Swogger picking up the mound triumph over Harry Cunningham. Augie Comfort homered for the winners.

Annexation Case Set For Hearing

LISBON — County commissioners, at a meeting Thursday set Sept. 27 for a hearing on a petition from residents of parts of Sections 23 and 24 in Unity Township to have the territory annexed to East Palestine.

In a vote to the May primaries in the unincorporated areas of Unity Township on the annexation question, the proposal was defeated.

In other business, East Liverpool was given $30.50 for 61 dogs destroyed during July. Two adding machines were rented at $12.50 per month each from the Kennedy Office Supply Co. of East Liverpool for use in the reappraisal office until the new tax duplicate is completed.

Word has been received from the Ohio Civil War Centennial Commission on the commissioners' request to have the locomotive, "The General," for the special celebration of Morgan's Raid July 27, 1963. The Ohio group advised it would contact the Louisville and Nashville Lines concerning the appearance of the train and that the Columbiana request

Steelers Scrimmage On Weirton Gridiron

WEIRTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers hold their first full-scale scrimmage today in the annual pre-season Alumni Day at Weirton High School Stadium.

Two veterans from last year's team will not play because of injuries. Fullback John Henry Johnston suffered a bruised knee Friday at the Steelers' nearby West Liberty State College training site.

Earlier in the week, end Red Mack came up with a shoulder separation that will keep him out of heavy action for a few weeks.

Coach Buddy Parker said he will use a different scoring system in the game. Since the contest matches the team's offensive unit against the defense, there will be no kickoffs or punting. But the offensive team will get points for first downs, pass completions and touchdowns, while the defense will make points by stopping first downs, getting pass interceptions and scoring touchdowns on pass interceptions.

The Steelers will play their first National Football League exhibition game next Saturday night against the Chicago Bears at Atlanta, Ga.

Man In Entering Case Here Asks Probation

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon has ordered a probation investigation for John Goempel, 216 Haywood St., who switched his plea to guilty on charges of motor vehicle theft and malicious entry of the Caplan Scrap Yard on the River Rd.

Goempel and Thomas Henry Lawrence of Lisbon R. D. 3 each faced two charges in connection with the alleged theft of scrap metal, hauled away in the company's truck. Goempel pleaded not guilty at arraignment after he was indicted by the Grand Jury. Lawrence previously pleaded guilty and asked probation.

Court's Lenient To Probationer

Bobby Yeager, 31, of R. D. 1 was given another chance at probation Thursday afternoon at hearing before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp at Lisbon on a charge of violating several terms of his probation on an armed robbery charge.

Chief Probation Officer Richard Rose cited Yeager into court on a charge he became involved in an altercation with Wellsville police at Pop's Tavern. In giving Yeager another chance, Judge Sharp pointed out the district man had served five and a half years in Western Penitentiary in Pennsylvania on a Beaver County armed robbery charge.

After release from prison in Pennsylvania, Yeager pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of Allison's Golden Dawn Market on Pennsylvania Ave. He was placed on probation by Judge Sharp June 13, 1961. Judge Sharp said the only bad mark on Yeager's probation record stemmed from the Wellsville incident.

He paid $5,535.34 to the state treasurer from the collection of sales and use taxes, and $45,799.07 was paid the state treasurer from the collection of the dealers' tax, the county receiving $518.54 for its 1 per cent poundage. The state also received $1,333.95 for car title fees.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do about a screen door that is sagging and is out of plumb with the door opening?

A. Square this screen door with a turnbuckle, procurable at your hardware store. The top of the turnbuckle is attached to the hinge side of the door, and then the wire is stretched diagonally across the door, and the turnbuckle screwed until your door is brought back square.

Q. How can I concoct a good, harmless, and stainless glue at home?

A. By soaking some plain cooking tapioca in water. This is an especially good glue for the very young child who likes to taste everything he uses.

Q. What can I do if water or liquids are beginning to soak through some of my cork coasters?

A. Paint the bottom side of each coaster with some colorless fingernail polish.

Q. Please tell me how I can clean tarnished silverware.

A. Place boiling water in a large aluminum pan, and add a tablespoon of baking soda to each quart of water. Place your silver in this and let stand for about 15 minutes. Then rinse with hot water and dry. Do not, however, use this method for "antiqued" silverware!

Q. How can I remove some printing ink stains from materials?

A. By working some lard or petroleum jelly into the stains, then laundering with plenty of soap and water. If not washable, sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

Q. How can I remove rust from outside metal fixtures?

A. One of the best ways I know of is with steel wool dipped in kerosene, following this with a polishing with liquid wax.

Q. How can I thaw frozen meat quickly?

A. Wrap it in some aluminum foil, and place in a moderately hot oven for 10 or 15 minutes.

Junior Editors Quiz on SYMBOLS

QUESTION: How did the eagle come to be our national bird?

ANSWER: The eagle is notable for its mastery of flight, keenness of vision and great strength. Since ancient times eagles have been used as symbols of empire, courage and military might. Their likeness is found on Greek and Roman coins and medals, and was used also by German emperors. The imperial Russian and Austrian coats-of-arms featured eagles. William Barton of Philadelphia was the first to suggest the eagle as a U.S. emblem, but his design for a Great Seal was not accepted by Congress. On June 20, 1782, Congress took as the official U.S. emblem a bald eagle with outspread wings, a shield on its breast, an olive branch in one foot and a sheaf of 18 arrows in the other. Benjamin Franklin objected, saying the eagle was "a bird of bad moral character . . . generally poor, and often very lousy. Besides, he is a rank coward." Franklin thought the wild turkey, found only in the New World, would make a "much more respectable" emblem. But the eagle won out then as it has many times since.

FOR YOU TO DO: Representations of the eagle have been used in many ways, such as on the mirror above. See how many pictures of the use of American eagles you can collect.

Man Who Hurt Thigh Reported 'Just Fair'

The condition of Carl Spriggs, 74, of 834 St. George St., was reported as "just fair" today at City Hospital after suffering a fracture of the left thigh Thursday night when he apparently fell on the sidewalk on E. 5th St. near the Post Office.

According to Mrs. Willard Fellure, his daughter, Spriggs apparently was hurt before officers led him on an intoxication charge. She said she and her husband realized he was hurt when he was unable to walk through the police station hallway, although assisted by her husband, who had to set him down.

She said her father did not fall in the hallway, nor was he injured there. Police had been instructed to release Spriggs to his relatives.

$2,262 Offer Seen Lowest For Cruisers

An apparent low net offer of $2,262.90 was filed with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen Friday on two 1963 autos for use as police cruisers.

The bid was filed by Central Service, Inc., of W. 7th St. The two officials, comprising the Board of Control, took the offers under advisement, indicating a contract will be awarded during the week of Aug. 13.

Central Service offered two Plymouth V-8 "Patroller" autos at $2,436.50 each. If the city provides a so - called "purchaser's exemption certificate" for federal excise tax, $173.10 will be deducted from the price of each car, making the net total $2,262.90, Central Service said.

Mackall Motors of Pennsylvania Ave. bid $2,749.50 each on two 1963 Ford "300" four - door sedans built for police duty.

Mike Turk, Inc., of E. 6th Sts. bid $2,500 each on two 8-cylinder 1963 Chevrolet four - door sedans. However, Turk offered a total of $400 in trade for two old cruisers, a 1958 Chevrolet and a 1960 Chevrolet, which would reduce the net price of each new auto to $2,300.

In all three cases, the dealers specified that the autos would be furnished with heavy - duty equipment made especially for police cruiser use.

Turk's bid was referred to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper for study because it did not bear the signature of Leo Greenburg, sales manager, who submitted the prices.

Greenburg's name was typewritten at the bottom of the letter, but the signature had not been affixed above. The sales manager attended the bid-opening session. He said the lack of a signature was an oversight.

Cooper also was asked to look into a clause in Turk's bid which said the company reserved the right to adjust its prices if the 1963 factory price list shows increases. Normally, the city is not permitted to accept a bid with a so-called "escalator" clause.

Turk was the only concern which submitted prices based on trade-in of the old cruisers.

Mayor Goodballet pointed out Owen will be out of town on vacation next week, so the board probably will not act on the bids until the following week.

However, he explained there is no need for undue speed, as all the dealers offered 1963 models, which will not be available for some time. In addition, there is the necessity to evaluate the offers and obtain a ruling from the solicitor on the bid from the Turk concern, the mayor pointed out.

Council already has appropriated $5,000 for the new police cars. The administration previously opened offers on leasing of four autos for use as cruisers, then consulted with Council. The councilmen decided the offers were too high and recommended that the administration go back to the traditional outright purchase of the police cars.

At the same session yesterday, the mayor and director awarded an $8,984 contract to the Road Machinery & Supply Co. of Cleveland for an Elgin White Wing IV model sweeper for use of the street department.

The Cleveland concern's bid was the lowest of four received by the board July 13.

It filed a net offer of $10,583, less a trade-in of $1,509 on the city's 1954 model sweeper, termed no longer fit for public use.

Since the bids were opened, the administration has been investigating the qualities of each machine and watching demonstrations of several models, along with members of Council.

As part of its bid, the Cleveland firm offered to sell back the city's old sweeper for $1. The company said the machine's side broom is guaranteed for life against damage from impact and pointed out service facilities are available in Cleveland.

Dies From Wound

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 6-year-old Columbus boy, Theodore White, died in a hospital here Friday of a bullet wound received when he shot himself with his father's revolver July 26. He had taken the gun from a drawer while he and a sister were playing.

Corporation Executive Linked With Estes Case

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — New York corporation chief Maynard Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp., is due to surrender Monday on a Texas antitrust indictment growing out of the far-flung Billie Sol Estes case.

His attorney, Whitman Knapp, said that Wheeler would present himself at 10 a.m. Monday to police in Manhattan.

Wheeler, Estes and R.E. (Bob) Clements, former owner of Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo, Tex., were indicted by a grand jury here Thursday. Their names were not revealed until Friday. Superior Manufacturing Co. was a key company in the Estes operations.

The indictments against Wheeler and Estes charge two counts of conspiracy to fix prices on anhydrous ammonia fertilizer and two counts of restraint of trade. Wheeler denied the charges Friday in a statement issued in New York.

Estes and Clements, the latter a co-founder of the historic Townsend Plan for the Aged in the 1930s, surrendered to Potter County (Amarillo) officers and were released immediately on bonds of $10,000 each.

In Dallas, Morris D. Jaffe of San Antonio, Tex., said he was negotiating with the Estes receiver, Harry Moore, to buy the Estes assets. In El Paso, where most of the Estes case has been heard so far, unofficial estimates have put the value of the assets at around $6.5 million.

Jaffe, a discount store chain owner and reputed millionaire at the age of 32, said he regarded the whole thing "merely as an investment."

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was in recess until Wednesday.

Before the group recessed Friday, McClellan said that somebody in the Department of Agriculture tried to "sweep the Estes case under the rug."

Rep. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., joined McClellan in accusations against the Agriculture Department. He demanded that the agency explain whether "stealth, stupidity or human frailty" delayed a report to the FBI on Estes' activities.

They were awarded the rank of airman second class and did not receive basic training or refresher courses.

Mayor Plans To Reactivate City's Traffic Commission

Acting at the request of a Chamber of Commerce committee, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet announced Friday afternoon he plans to reactivate the five - member City Traffic Commission, which has not functioned for about five years.

The mayor made the announcement following a meeting in his office with Judson English and E. R. Chandler, representing the Chamber's traffic committee; Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen.

The mayor said the same group will meet again Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at his office to discuss appointments to the commission.

Traffic and safety measures were discussed at length in the meeting yesterday, along with the need for better education of motorists and other measures for improvement of traffic flow, the mayor said.

The last functioning Traffic Commission served briefly in 1958 and 1959 during the tenure of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence. Its principal act was to recommend the city acquire a lot on W. 6th St. opposite City Hall and convert it into a metered off-street parking lot. The commission's recommendation was adopted.

The city ordinance establishing the group provides that the commission will be comprised of five persons having the qualifications of electors and who shall serve without pay.

On the duties of the commission, the ordinance says: "The duty of the Traffic Commission shall be to devise ways and means to adequately cope with traffic conditions in the city and to submit the same to the Council for its approval. The commission also shall have such powers and duties as are conferred and authorized from time to time by the Council."

At a meeting in mid-July, the Chamber committee decided to recommend that the mayor reactivate the Traffic Commission. Yesterday's meeting was the result.

Phone Project Nears Finish

WEIRTON — Crews of the Western Electric Co. are nearing completion of installation of equipment for conversion from the manual to the dial system for customers of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. in the New Cumberland, Weirton and Paris (Pa.) areas.

Company personnel will flip master switches in dial buildings in downtown Weirton, Weirton Heights, and New Cumberland Oct. 7 at 2 a. m. for the changeover.

Telephone numbers will consist of seven digits, with the first three designating the office through which calls are processed, after completion of the $4 million conversion project.

Numbers for telephones served by the Weirton downtown office will begin with the numerals 748, followed by four digits. Telephones served by the Weirton Heights facility will begin with digits 723 with the exception of Paris telephones, with digits of 729. The New Cumberland numbers will begin with 564.

Some 10,000 customers will be affected by the changeover. About 90 per cent of the manually - operated phones which were in use in the area have been changed to the dial - type. A number of rural phones and about half of the pay phones remain to be changed.

New phone books will be distributed Oct. 1-5. The directories will have a folder with a notice that the new book is not to be used until after 2 a. m. Oct. 7.

New Cumberland will be served by the dial facility there. Harvey Lilly is commercial manager of the Weirton office.

Lions Club Given Reports By 2 On June Convention

Reports on the Lions International convention in June in Nice, France, were presented by George McCullough, district governor, and A. Richard Walker, district public relations chairman, at the Lions Club's luncheon meeting Friday noon in the Travelers Hotel.

McCullough said the convention was held abroad for the first time because of the great increase in Lionism in foreign countries in the past year.

Activities took place in the city's huge new Convention Hall, seating about 30,000. The Lions convention marked the first large program in the hall McCullough said.

Walker screened color slides of the opening - day parade, views of the city, and scenes along the Riviera on the Mediterranean Sea. Their wives also attended. The four city residents were part of an organized tour of 146 Lions from Ohio, and the trip was made by plane.

Patsy DiPasquale was program chairman. James Johnston, president, presided. The Board of Directors will meet Monday night in the annex of the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

Farmers In Hancock To Get Grain Checks

Final payments will be made soon to Hancock County farmers participating in the 1962 wheat stabilization program and this year's feed grain program for corn, grain sorghum and barley, the County Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation Committee in New Cumberland said.

Program payments already made in the county for diverting acreages from production into soil-conserving uses totaled $3,074.75, Carl R. Allison, chairman, reported.

He reminded farmers that compliance with provisions of the diversion programs does not end with receipt of the final payments. The land retired from production may not be grazed or a crop harvested from it through 1962.

West Virginia Seeks List Of Unfit Drivers

CHARLESTON (AP) — Law enforcement officers, judges and justices of the peace throughout West Virginia have been asked to forward to the Department of Motor Vehicles the names of any persons they consider unfit to drive a car.

The request was made by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols in an effort to obtain more complete records of traffic law violators.

In a letter to state and local officials, Nuckols urged:

"Please forward the name and address of anyone who has been convicted in your court, or whom you have arrested, that you consider to be unfit to operate a motor vehicle on our highways. We shall immediately check the record of the person and act accordingly."

Nuckols said his agency is setting up a central recording system to keep track of each traffic conviction "in order to determine who is capable of operating a motor vehicle on the highways of this state".

"The Motor Vehicles Department has broad authority with respect to West Virginia drivers, and revocation or suspension of their licenses, but we intend to use it cautiously," Nuckols said.

Man Who Hurt Thigh Reported 'Just Fair'

The condition of Carl Spriggs, 74, of 834 St. George St., was reported as "just fair" today at City Hospital after suffering a fracture of the left thigh Thursday night when he apparently fell on the sidewalk on E. 5th St. near the Post Office.

According to Mrs. Willard Fellure, his daughter, Spriggs apparently was hurt before officers led him on an intoxication charge. She said she and her husband realized he was hurt when he was unable to walk through the police station hallway, although assisted by her husband, who had to set him down.

She said her father did not fall in the hallway, nor was he injured there. Police had been instructed to release Spriggs to his relatives.

$2,262 Offer Seen Lowest For Cruisers

An apparent low net offer of $2,262.90 was filed with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen Friday on two 1963 autos for use as police cruisers.

The bid was filed by Central Service, Inc., of W. 7th St. The two officials, comprising the Board of Control, took the offers under advisement, indicating a contract will be awarded during the week of Aug. 13.

Central Service offered two Plymouth V-8 "Patroller" autos at $2,436.50 each. If the city provides a so - called "purchaser's exemption certificate" for federal excise tax, $173.10 will be deducted from the price of each car, making the net total $2,262.90, Central Service said.

Mackall Motors of Pennsylvania Ave. bid $2,749.50 each on two 1963 Ford "300" four - door sedans built for police duty.

Mike Turk, Inc., of E. 6th Sts. bid $2,500 each on two 8-cylinder 1963 Chevrolet four - door sedans. However, Turk offered a total of $400 in trade for two old cruisers, a 1958 Chevrolet and a 1960 Chevrolet, which would reduce the net price of each new auto to $2,300.

In all three cases, the dealers specified that the autos would be furnished with heavy - duty equipment made especially for police cruiser use.

Turk's bid was referred to Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper for study because it did not bear the signature of Leo Greenburg, sales manager, who submitted the prices.

Greenburg's name was typewritten at the bottom of the letter, but the signature had not been affixed above. The sales manager attended the bid-opening session. He said the lack of a signature was an oversight.

Cooper also was asked to look into a clause in Turk's bid which said the company reserved the right to adjust its prices if the 1963 factory price list shows increases. Normally, the city is not permitted to accept a bid with a so-called "escalator" clause.

Turk was the only concern which submitted prices based on trade-in of the old cruisers.

Mayor Goodballet pointed out Owen will be out of town on vacation next week, so the board probably will not act on the bids until the following week.

However, he explained there is no need for undue speed, as all the dealers offered 1963 models, which will not be available for some time. In addition, there is the necessity to evaluate the offers and obtain a ruling from the solicitor on the bid from the Turk concern, the mayor pointed out.

Council already has appropriated $5,000 for the new police cars. The administration previously opened offers on leasing of four autos for use as cruisers, then consulted with Council. The councilmen decided the offers were too high and recommended that the administration go back to the traditional outright purchase of the police cars.

At the same session yesterday, the mayor and director awarded an $8,984 contract to the Road Machinery & Supply Co. of Cleveland for an Elgin White Wing IV model sweeper for use of the street department.

The Cleveland concern's bid was the lowest of four received by the board July 13.

It filed a net offer of $10,583, less a trade-in of $1,509 on the city's 1954 model sweeper, termed no longer fit for public use.

Since the bids were opened, the administration has been investigating the qualities of each machine and watching demonstrations of several models, along with members of Council.

As part of its bid, the Cleveland firm offered to sell back the city's old sweeper for $1. The company said the machine's side broom is guaranteed for life against damage from impact and pointed out service facilities are available in Cleveland.

Dies From Wound

Corporation Executive Linked With Estes Case

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — New York corporation chief Maynard Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp., is due to surrender Monday on a Texas antitrust indictment growing out of the far-flung Billie Sol Estes case.

His attorney, Whitman Knapp, said that Wheeler would present himself at 10 a.m. Monday to police in Manhattan.

Wheeler, Estes and R.E. (Bob) Clements, former owner of Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo, Tex., were indicted by a grand jury here Thursday. Their names were not revealed until Friday. Superior Manufacturing Co. was a key company in the Estes operations.

The indictments against Wheeler and Estes charge two counts of conspiracy to fix prices on anhydrous ammonia fertilizer and two counts of restraint of trade. Wheeler denied the charges Friday in a statement issued in New York.

Estes and Clements, the latter a co-founder of the historic Townsend Plan for the Aged in the 1930s, surrendered to Potter County (Amarillo) officers and were released immediately on bonds of $10,000 each.

In Dallas, Morris D. Jaffe of San Antonio, Tex., said he was negotiating with the Estes receiver, Harry Moore, to buy the Estes assets. In El Paso, where most of the Estes case has been heard so far, unofficial estimates have put the value of the assets at around $6.5 million.

Jaffe, a discount store chain owner and reputed millionaire at the age of 32, said he regarded the whole thing "merely as an investment."

The Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was in recess until Wednesday.

Before the group recessed Friday, McClellan said that somebody in the Department of Agriculture tried to "sweep the Estes case under the rug."

Rep. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., joined McClellan in accusations against the Agriculture Department. He demanded that the agency explain whether "stealth, stupidity or human frailty" delayed a report to the FBI on Estes' activities.

Mayor Plans To Reactivate City's Traffic Commission

Acting at the request of a Chamber of Commerce committee, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet announced Friday afternoon he plans to reactivate the five - member City Traffic Commission, which has not functioned for about five years.

The mayor made the announcement following a meeting in his office with Judson English and E. R. Chandler, representing the Chamber's traffic committee; Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen.

The mayor said the same group will meet again Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at his office to discuss appointments to the commission.

Traffic and safety measures were discussed at length in the meeting yesterday, along with the need for better education of motorists and other measures for improvement of traffic flow, the mayor said.

The last functioning Traffic Commission served briefly in 1958 and 1959 during the tenure of former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence. Its principal act was to recommend the city acquire a lot on W. 6th St. opposite City Hall and convert it into a metered off-street parking lot. The commission's recommendation was adopted.

The city ordinance establishing the group provides that the commission will be comprised of five persons having the qualifications of electors and who shall serve without pay.

On the duties of the commission, the ordinance says: "The duty of the Traffic Commission shall be to devise ways and means to adequately cope with traffic conditions in the city and to submit the same to the Council for its approval. The commission also shall have such powers and duties as are conferred and authorized from time to time by the Council."

At a meeting in mid-July, the Chamber committee decided to recommend that the mayor reactivate the Traffic Commission. Yesterday's meeting was the result.

Lions Club Given Reports By 2 On June Convention

Reports on the Lions International convention in June in Nice, France, were presented by George McCullough, district governor, and A. Richard Walker, district public relations chairman, at the Lions Club's luncheon meeting Friday noon in the Travelers Hotel.

McCullough said the convention was held abroad for the first time because of the great increase in Lionism in foreign countries in the past year.

Activities took place in the city's huge new Convention Hall, seating about 30,000. The Lions convention marked the first large program in the hall McCullough said.

Walker screened color slides of the opening - day parade, views of the city, and scenes along the Riviera on the Mediterranean Sea. Their wives also attended. The four city residents were part of an organized tour of 146 Lions from Ohio, and the trip was made by plane.

Patsy DiPasquale was program chairman. James Johnston, president, presided. The Board of Directors will meet Monday night in the annex of the Potters Savings & Loan Co.

Farmers In Hancock To Get Grain Checks

Final payments will be made soon to Hancock County farmers participating in the 1962 wheat stabilization program and this year's feed grain program for corn, grain sorghum and barley, the County Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation Committee in New Cumberland said.

Program payments already made in the county for diverting acreages from production into soil-conserving uses totaled $3,074.75, Carl R. Allison, chairman, reported.

He reminded farmers that compliance with provisions of the diversion programs does not end with receipt of the final payments. The land retired from production may not be grazed or a crop harvested from it through 1962.

West Virginia Seeks List Of Unfit Drivers

CHARLESTON (AP) — Law enforcement officers, judges and justices of the peace throughout West Virginia have been asked to forward to the Department of Motor Vehicles the names of any persons they consider unfit to drive a car.

The request was made by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols in an effort to obtain more complete records of traffic law violators.

In a letter to state and local officials, Nuckols urged:

"Please forward the name and address of anyone who has been convicted in your court, or whom you have arrested, that you consider to be unfit to operate a motor vehicle on our highways. We shall immediately check the record of the person and act accordingly."

Nuckols said his agency is setting up a central recording system to keep track of each traffic conviction "in order to determine who is capable of operating a motor vehicle on the highways of this state".

"The Motor Vehicles Department has broad authority with respect to West Virginia drivers, and revocation or suspension of their licenses, but we intend to use it cautiously," Nuckols said.

A pot of gold isn't always at the end of a rainbow—it may be hidden in your attic or basement, collecting dust and lucrative interest

DO YOU HAVE A FORGOTTEN FORTUNE?

By JERRY KLEIN

ARE YOU absolutely sure that those shares of United Pickleworks left you by cranky Cousin Agatha are worthless?

And how about the old family tradition that Uncle Abraham had thousands of dollars worth of bonds which the Government used to finance the Louisiana Purchase? Have you ever found out what happened to them?

It's entirely possible you're worth a lot more than you imagine simply because you—or a relative—committed a financial oversight somewhere along the line!

Oddly enough, people have a way of letting valuable assets slip through their fingers. Right this minute, there are literally billions of dollars worth of stocks, bonds, and other valuables frozen as "abandoned property" until they are rightfully claimed.

Take the case of the Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific Railroad. It has about $600,000 worth of cash and stock waiting for unknown creditors to step forward and prove their right to the booty.

But time is short! The court has ruled that if claimants don't file bids on this hoard by Aug. 17, the railroad may keep it.

In this example of a forgotten fortune, errant investors have failed to exchange old bonds for new securities issued when the railroad was reorganized 15 years ago. Such corporate changes commonly leave careless investors in the lurch.

Probably the highest-priced piece of paper in America is stock certificate No. 390 of Texas Pacific Land Trust. Sold in 1888 through a now-defunct brokerage firm, it's worth about $1,500,000 to the person who can prove rightful ownership!

Half that stately sum may be yours if you can help Bryant L. McCormack establish his claim. A 55-year-old railroad telegrapher and bachelor living in Arcadia, Mo., McCormack says the gilt-edged certificate was originally purchased by a relative named Dewitt Clinton McCormack in July, 1888.

Trouble is that the records of the brokerage house, Blake Bros., seem to have been lost, including the confirmation of sale on "Old 390." This is why McCormack is willing to split the treasure with anyone who can locate the missing sales slip and thereby confirm his right to the windfall.

Under the ancient legal principle called escheat, and various abandoned-property laws, such lost fortunes eventually may be taken over by state treasuries.

Uncle Sam also has benefited from this "easy-go" attitude with an estimated $5-billion windfall in the form of bank accounts, safe-deposit vaults, bonds, dividends, wages, income-tax refunds, insurance payments, and various other valuables his nephews and nieces seemingly have forgotten!

Included are Government securities which have gone unredeemed since they were issued to finance such early adventures in American history as the Louisiana Purchase and the War of 1812.

More recently, citizens have failed to cash in about $350 million worth of U.S. Saving Bonds, and when New York State made a survey of 1,697 brokerage firms, 134 said they were holding thousands of dollars in dividends which the stockholders had neglected to claim.

Of course, there always have been suspicious souls who mistrusted banks, preferring to deposit their assets in such out-of-the-way places as mattresses, tea canisters, and shoe boxes—or who buried treasure in their back yards. And some of these troves have been forgotten as the years passed.

Just recently in Pleasantville, Iowa, for instance, crocks containing more than $1,000 in gold coins were accidentally discovered by a man hoeing his garden. It turned out that the gold had been buried there and apparently forgotten by an eccentric who owned the property about 75 years before.

The theatrical world has a standing joke about Katharine Cornell's inability to recall just what bank maintains her checking account, and Jimmy Durante also has a reputation for forgetting to deposit checks he has received. He drops them absent-mindedly around the house. Urged by the bank to "clean house" one time, Jimmy found more than $20,000 which he had overlooked!

Like Jimmy Durante, you, too, could possess a forgotten fortune. For as Montaigne, the 16th-century French writer, observed: "Taking it all in all, it is more trouble to watch over money than to get it!"

How to Check Your Securities

To protect stockholders against loss, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission publishes reports on securities which must be exchanged before a certain deadline because of corporate reorganizations. Dozens of such securities are listed in the current nationwide report, which may be obtained by writing the Securities and Exchange Commission at 225 Broadway, New York 7, N.Y.

the signals, the more disturbing the routine is likely to be.

In my own investigations, I used hogs as subjects. On one day, the interruption of a continuous tone signified that the animals would be fed. On alternate days, the same interruption signaled that they would receive a light but unpleasant electrical shock. After several months of this alternation, two of the three animals used in the study developed neuroses.

In men as well as in animals, such reflex behavior develops almost without the victim being aware of it. A pedestrian jumps at the warning sound of an auto horn before he considers its meaning. He has become conditioned.

FACED WITH the possibility that the Russians are using this technique to brainwash us, can we save ourselves?

Remedial measures are akin to lifting ourselves by our own bootstraps. The first step is to comprehend the mechanism: the alternating current of sweet talk and threats.

A French physician who survived three years of brainwashing in a Chinese prison said: "You are exhausted, and you are annihilated. You can't distinguish right from left. You just wonder when you will be shot—and begin to hope for the end. Finally, you do whatever they want."

Three conditions, if maintained long enough, are expected to create an experimental neurosis in a human being.

1. A continuous state of unpleasant anticipation.
2. Lack of means to combat the situation.
3. Mounting anxiety under inescapable pressure.

Ask yourself: Do you dread the next Soviet threat? Do you have doubts about our ability to fight back? Do you feel we can only sit and wait for the inevitable?

If you have these feelings, reach fast for your bootstraps!

The primitive medicine man controlled his subjects only as long as they failed to see through his "magic." Likewise, once we view the Soviet smile-and-snarl as a kind of "medicine," we can judge it realistically and refuse to be stampeded.

Knowledge is power. In psychotherapy, it is a fact that if a person learns what is wrong and can understand what threatens him, he will make an effort to protect himself.

I believe that an understanding of Pavlov's principles is a key to our national self-defense. But this is merely a first step. We need more knowledge. I suggest three steps:

1. Read more about the threat itself.
2. Dig behind the crisis headlines.
3. Set your sights on an ultimate goal and don't be distracted or diverted from attaining it.

DIGGING behind the daily headlines, you will discover that Kremlin leaders are possibly more dilemma-ridden than we are. After 40 years, their rate of growth is still inferior to that which "dying capitalism" has provided for Japan, France, and West Germany. Soviet agriculture has never fed its people adequately, while ours produces surpluses.

You will also see through the myth of Soviet "solidarity." Long ago, Yugoslavia rejected Khrushchev's leadership. In Africa, Southeast Asia, and Cuba, Red China is openly competing with Russia for supremacy. Even in Russia itself, the Communist party seems to be deeply divided.

Most of us want to live peacefully in a community of nations. If you subscribe to this goal and arm yourself with the facts, your thinking and your actions can assume a realistic direction. You will have an objective which will prevent the undermining of your courage, wisdom, and faith.

When the chips were down, astronauts John Glenn and Scott Carpenter were able to survive both the nerve-racking postponements and the emergencies that threatened their earth orbits.

They had the facts. They knew their objective. Their faith held.

Most of us can be equally strong in our own way. As long as we live, Soviet smiles probably will alternate with snarls, threats, and shoe-pounding. But if we recognize these gestures for what they are, we will not panic. We will be resolute in working toward our goal—a world where men can live in peace and freedom.

IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A SPECIAL LAXATIVE FOR WOMEN?

So many women are asking this important question.

The answer is—yes. A remarkable new medical discovery called Dioctyl Sodium Sulfosuccinate has now made possible a special new laxative for a woman's sensitive system. We call it Correctol®.

Correctol works two ways. First, its miracle ingredient takes advantage of the natural moisture in your system. Second, its mild laxative acts gently but most effectively. Working together, Correctol's two active ingredients give a woman more natural relief than any ordinary laxative can.

Correctol is recommended any time in a woman's life, even during and after pregnancy.

THESE 3 beautifully bound classics

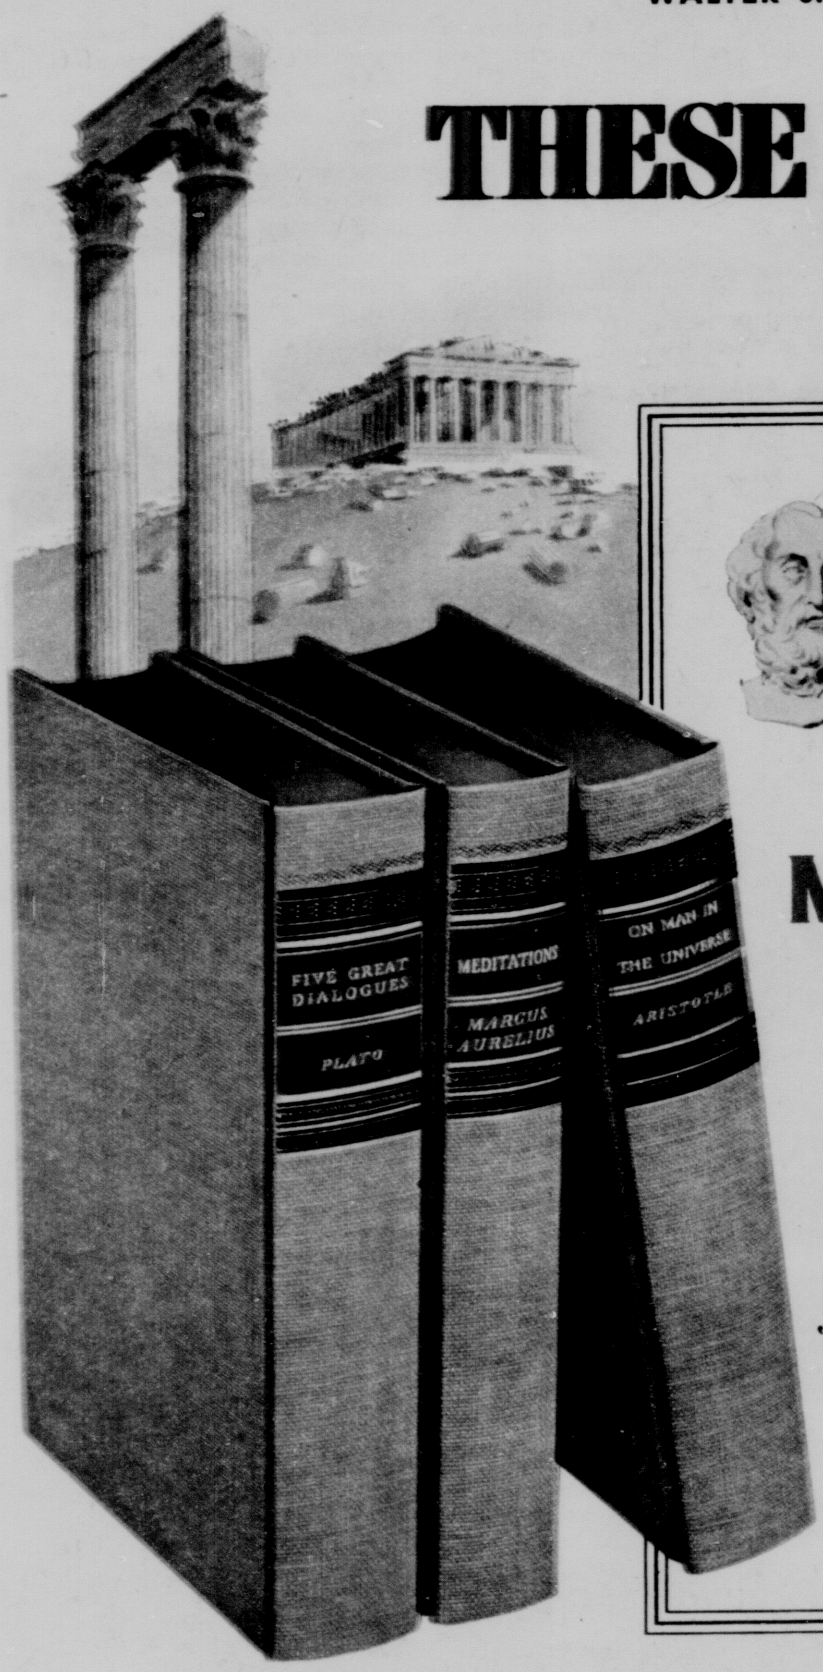
FOR ONLY $1.00 [REGULAR PRICE $10.17] AS A NEW MEMBER



PLATO FIVE GREAT DIALOGUES

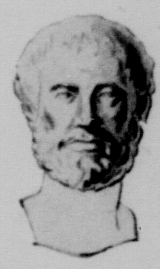
NOTHING short of amazing is the way this great classic (written more than two thousand years ago) hits so many nails squarely on the head today! Here, in the clearest reasoning in all literature, is the pure essence of how to get the best out of life — whether we possess worldly wealth or only the riches in our hearts and minds.

This beautiful edition contains the five great dialogues. In these conversations between friends — fresh, spontaneous, humorous, informal — you have "philosophy brought down from heaven to earth."

MARCUS AURELIUS MEDITATIONS

THROUGH these writings, you gaze as if through a powerful telescope at the Rome of eighteen centuries ago. You will be struck by resemblances to our own era as you read the wise Meditations of the great emperor-philosopher, Marcus Aurelius, the Stoic who found peace in traditional customs . . . the witty arguments of Lucian, the Skeptic, who punctured so many beliefs . . . the impassioned words of Justin, the Christian, willing to die for the new religion.

ARISTOTLE ON MAN IN THE UNIVERSE



"THE master of them that know," this supreme mind of the fabulous Golden Age of Greece was called by the poet Dante. He was so far ahead of his era that his ideas are astonishingly timely today. Nature, politics, art, drama, logic, morals — he explored them all, with a mind open to truth and a heart eager for understanding.

Included is the essence of his five celebrated essays. You will be amazed, as you read them, how this great philosopher discovered by pure reason so many truths upon which modern scientists and thinkers have only recently agreed.

Why The Classics Club Offers You This Superb Value

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library — as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today . . . and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces.

These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "pressed for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For sheer fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Have you ever wondered how the truly great books have become "classics"? First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of Its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. They have tinted page tops; are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

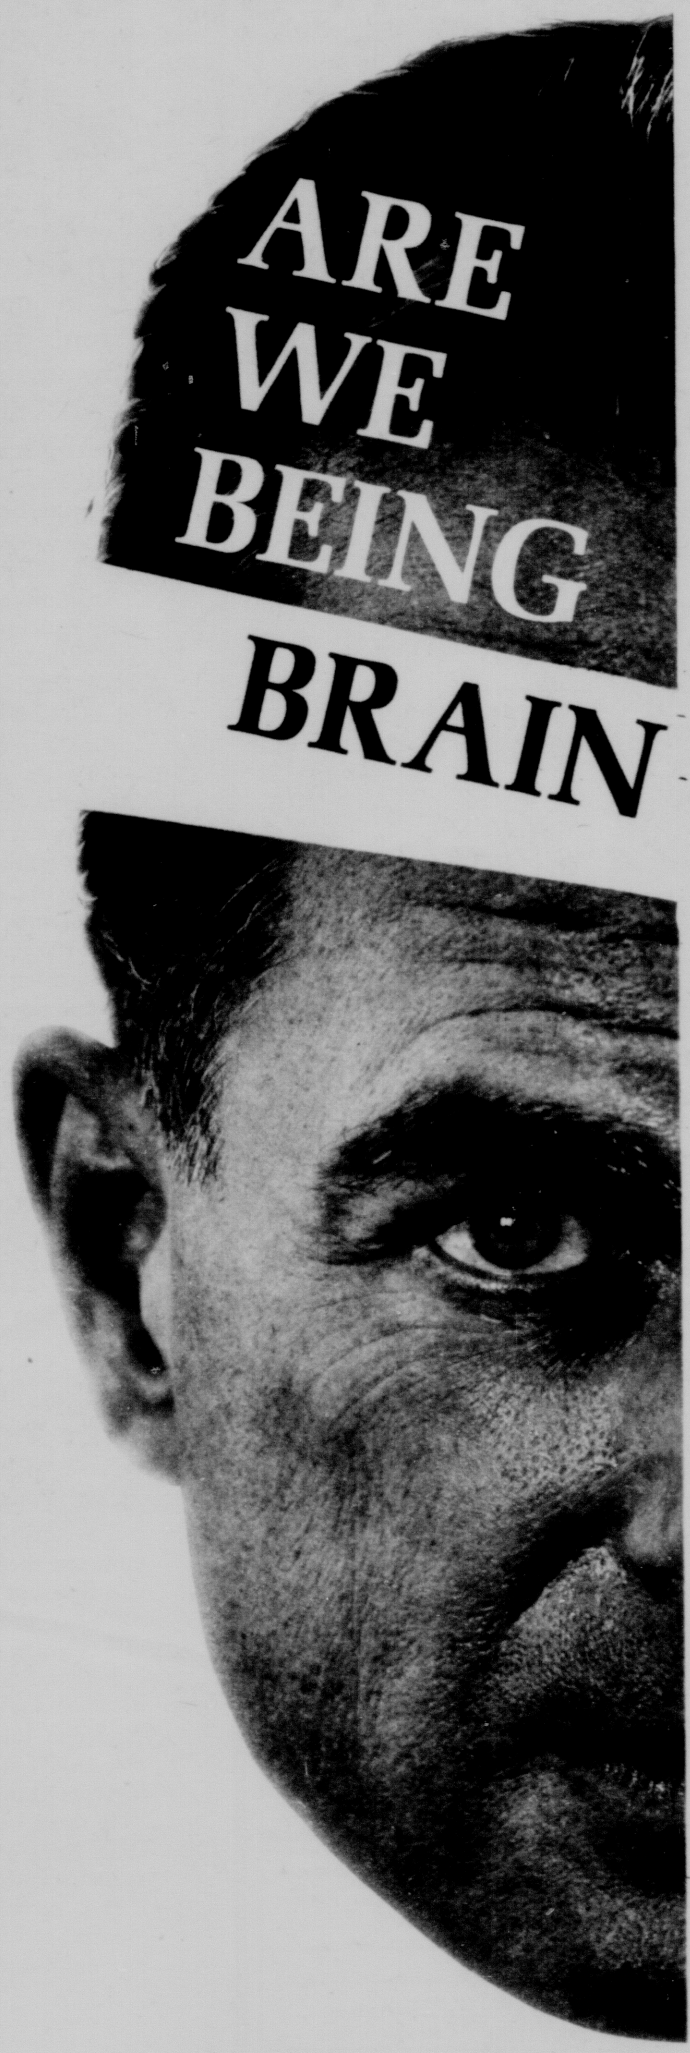
Why do the Russians smile at us one day and snarl the next? A psychiatrist

ARE WE BEING BRAIN

By GEORGE F. SUTHERLAND, M.D. with Curtis Mitchell
Past President, Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine



ONE MONTH, Nikita Khrushchev is hurling threats of atomic annihilation at us. The next month, he is cooing cozily about peaceful coexistence.

It simply does not make sense. Or does it?

I think it does. I believe the seemingly erratic movements of Soviet diplomacy may not be erratic at all. Instead, they seem to be carefully planned to create neurosis on a global scale.

Over the years, I have gathered and analyzed records of hundreds of such twists and turns, and it becomes more and more obvious that there is an underlying timing for each.

A problem is raised; and at first the Russians seem to want a peaceful settlement. But when a solution seems near, they lose interest and raise new objections which make a settlement of the problem impossible.

For instance, throughout 1961 the Russians insisted that we and they discuss banning nuclear weapons in conjunction with our talks on total disarmament. Although we preferred another course, we finally agreed—whereupon they reversed themselves, asserting that our acceptance was a capitalistic trick and that they would no longer agree with their own proposal.

This zigzag technique in diplomacy parallels the methods used by the Red Chinese in brainwashing American prisoners during the Korean War.

In his book, "Battle for the Mind," William Sargant describes how brainwashers subject a victim to alternating positive and negative attitudes. For a time, the victim is treated in a friendly manner—and then, for no apparent reason, he becomes an object of utmost disdain. As the process continues, he grows progressively more and more bewildered. Finally, he will grasp at the slightest promise of relief. In this condition, he is likely to fall for any type of indoctrination.

Although the Red Chinese are the most notorious practitioners of brainwashing, the foundations for it were laid by a Russian doctor and physiologist, Ivan Petrovich Pavlov (1849-1936). In 1904, he won the Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine. During later studies, he discovered how to alter the attitudes and behavior of laboratory animals to the point of producing nervous disorders in them.

When the Communists came to power in 1917, Nikolai Lenin thought so highly of Pavlov's talents that he awarded the scientist double rations, a country house, an expanded laboratory, and the perpetual use of an apartment.

Lenin hoped to apply Pavlov's psychological techniques to alter the attitudes and behavior of humans. Since then, Pavlov's principles have been used extensively in Russian child training and in the Soviet brand of psychiatry.

BY CONTRAST, the Western world has failed to grasp the deep significance of Pavlov's theories. In consequence, we do not understand what may be happening to us. Instead of responding rationally, we often react compulsively to Soviet propaganda.

Why should this be? Students of Pavlov advance the theory that a person who is bewildered in attempting to deal with a situation will accept any strong suggestion without question.

Before the first Sputnik, most Americans were convinced of our superiority over the Russians. But when the Russian space vehicle roared into orbit and ours remained grounded, it confused and shocked us. Their success suggested strongly that we had been wrong. Our self-confidence changed swiftly to self-doubt and anxiety, and we have never entirely recovered.

To a psychiatrist, this persistent feeling of apprehension is a symptom of the sickness called psychoneurosis.

A variety of techniques will produce this neurosis in an experimental animal. But all of them involve presenting a succession of alternating positive and negative signals calling for opposite responses. The more difficult it becomes to distinguish between

THE SOUND THAT CHEATED DEATH

By ROBERT J. QUINN
Fire Commissioner of Chicago
as told to Hal Higdon

In the debris of a collapsed building, an injured man is trapped—but where? A fire fighter finds the answer in a newscaster's hand

PEOPLE in the neighborhood said later they heard a roar, felt a rush of air. Suddenly a cloud of black smoke hung in the air where a building once stood.

Wreckers had been dismantling an old building southwest of Chicago's Loop to make room for a new shopping center. Without warning, the floors had collapsed. Of 29 workmen in the building, 15 were injured when the three-story structure came crashing down on them. At least three men were trapped and perhaps still alive, waiting for firemen to dig them out.

My men went to work. I climbed through a narrow passage in the debris and after a 1½-hour struggle uncovered one man. His thighs were crushed under bricks and mortar, and all we could do was ease his pain before he died.

It would be two days before we located the body of the second victim. But the third man, William McCoy, was another story, and an amazing one. We knew he had been working on the first floor and probably was now buried in the basement. But where should we begin digging? And how long did we have?

Crawling under the basement floor, I began shouting through the floor beams, hoping McCoy, if he were alive, would hear. Suddenly my driver, Bill McDonough, nudged me. "I think I hear someone," he said. McDonough was right. A weak voice cried for help somewhere above us in the maze of rubble.

I shined my flashlight upward. "Yell when you see the light!" I shouted. A frightened voice answered—"Oh, Lord, help me! The pain is terrible. I can't take it long!" His words told us about where he was—and that we must hurry.

Pacing off the distance to the nearest wall, we returned to ground level. I paced off the same approximate distance there and told the rescuers: "Dig here. Our man's somewhere below."

BUT "somewhere below" might not be good enough. We had more than a dozen feet of loosely packed brick, board, and concrete to dig through before we could uncover McCoy. The still-standing walls teetered above our heads, threatening to buckle at any moment. We couldn't utilize any heavy equipment that might dislodge them. We had to dig carefully by hand, chipping away like a master cutter at a precious diamond. Failing to dig directly down to McCoy might cost us hours. A matter of minutes in our uncovering him might make the mortal difference.

McCoy probably didn't have much time. A heavy steel I beam lay across his left calf, pinning him. Another steel beam had landed along his right side. It supported a sheet of metal flooring which had protected him from cascading debris. McCoy lay face down, unable to move, completely buried—and with time running out. And we had only a vague idea of where he was.

Then I had an idea. A crowd of several thousand people, including McCoy's wife, had gathered to watch the rescue operation. I noticed newscaster Jim Hurlbut circulating along the fringe of the crowd. Using a battery-powered recorder, he was taping eyewitness accounts.

I went up to Jim and said: "There's a man down there. We can hear his voice faintly, but we can't tell exactly where he's located."

Jim's eyes lighted up. "Maybe we can drop a mike down to him and let him tell us," he said.

The building's wreckage had fallen in a pile like matchsticks spilled from a box. It was jittery as a bowl of gelatin. But enough holes or breathing spaces existed so that small objects could be lowered through the debris with some chance of getting below.

HURLBUT'S recording unit contained a long extension cord. We got down on our bellies above where we thought McCoy was buried and, using this long cord, lowered the business end of the recorder, the microphone, through the debris. We were fishing for a human life. "McCoy, can you see the mike?" I shouted.

"I can't see anything," McCoy's voice echoed dimly through the wreckage. "Won't you people ever get me out of here?"

"We're trying, McCoy. We're trying!"

We hauled the mike back up and lowered it again through the debris in another spot. Then we tried again, straining to hear.

"I see the mike!" McCoy shouted. "It's only three feet in front of my head." His voice came loud and clear. Now we knew where he was!

I stood up and motioned the rescue crew to move over. "We've been digging in the wrong place, boys. He's down here."

Nineteen-and-a-half hours after being buried alive, William McCoy was lifted from the wreckage. His leg, pinned all this time without circulation under a steel beam, had to be amputated below the knee, but he would survive. "I'm a lucky man," McCoy admitted as the ambulance drove him away.

He was lucky, because the place we had found him was maybe a dozen feet away from where we had originally started to dig. Not very far as distances go—perhaps just the distance between life and death.

With more than a dozen feet of loosely packed brick, board, and concrete to move, Commissioner Quinn (in white helmet) and his fire fighters dig for McCoy.

I was just thinking . . .

FROM THE LITTLE church at Haworth in northern England, where the Brontë sisters once knelt in prayer, are spread the hills covered with heather. It's possible to imagine a Heathcliff still calling his Cathy.

Yet when I pass an American field splashed with the brilliance of wild mustard, I find it no less beautiful. But wild mustard is merely an aggravation to a farmer.

In a ditch one day I discovered oriental splendor. I picked all I could carry, took it home, and set it in a low container on a carved teakwood base. The brown spiky stems and starlike dried blossoms were a delight.

But a neighbor was horrified.

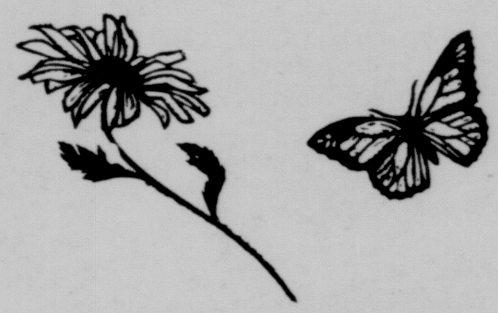
"That's buttonweed," she said. "We've been trying to eradicate it for years!"

I loved it. I still do.

The feathery fronds of foxtail enchant me, but they're mowed down and sprayed with dogged persistence because foxtail is a grassy weed.

In the spring, the lawn is ablaze with dandelions which cling to life in spite of us. I don't begrudge them their tenacity. If they were difficult to grow, rare to find, we'd cultivate them as we do orchids.

Yet orchids are parasites that hug the wild tree trunks along the Tamiami Trail to the Everglades. There they are truly weeds themselves.



There is a bed of day lilies on the lawn. In midsummer they are as brilliant as the sunset. But the lilies of the field are no different, and the highway crews blithely mow them down along the country roads.

I found a strange plant in a vacant lot and dried it for winter. It's striking in a tall vase. Someone told me it's called sourdock. Someone else said sourdock is sold for 50 cents a stem in metropolitan florists' shops.

It must be that we see beauty only in the enchantment of distance and difference. When it is spread beneath our feet, we cannot love it.

It is so with people, too. Often we waste the sweetness of familiarity upon the desert air of our contempt.

Hot-Air Trick By Betty Kahn

Have you a glass jar with a wide opening? Here's a trick to play with it. You also need a balloon and a pan of hot water!

Blow a little air into the balloon. Now tie the neck and stick the balloon in the glass jar, which you then place in the pan of hot water.

Watch the balloon get bigger!

Riddles!

1. Why does a dog turn around several times before lying down?
2. Why does a turkey cross the road?
3. What roof is always wet yet never leaks?

Answers: 1. Because one good turn deserves another; 2. For some fowl reason of its own; 3. The roof of your mouth.

The Big Blow By Betty Kahn

Here is some fun for your party. First prepare your egg, making a small opening at the top and at the bottom and blow out the contents of the egg from the top opening. Now it is hollow.

A center line across the middle of your dining table comes next. The two teams of players sit at opposite sides of the table and try to blow the empty egg (at the word "Go!") across the goal line to their opponents' side and off the table.

Five points are scored for the team that blows the egg off the table. Don't touch that egg, though, while the Big Blow is on!

The Most Interesting

From among her famous friends—and ex-friends—this noted hostess selects the people who fascinate her most

By ELSA MAXWELL

■ I COUNT PEOPLE interesting when they are intelligent and stimulating and have some element of surprise in their make-up. They need not be loyal or kind (and, alas, they often are not). As a result, a list of the most interesting people I know includes persons I do not approve of, as well as some I am very fond of.

MARIA CALLAS

■ In my opinion, Maria Callas is the greatest vocal artist of our century. But I also find her, as a woman, bereft of the human qualities that animate her on-stage. It's as if she has given her total thought and energy to her art and has nothing left for day-to-day living.

Last year, when it was reported she was losing her voice, I went to Greece to hear her sing "Medea." I went fearfully. But she sang like an angel—which she is not—and I gave reverent thanks. For although I am no longer her friend, I shudder to think what would happen if her voice were to go. Without it, she would have no existence at all.

It was said she married Giovanni Battista Meneghini (20 years her senior and not at all attractive) because he was rich. But I am sure the real reason was that he promised to devote his life to her career.

As it turned out, he commandeered her finances and told her nothing of her affairs. During her marriage to him, she never had more than a few francs in her purse at a time. When they separated in 1959, she learned he had not even paid for jewelry he had given her.

In worldly matters, Maria is like a child. Consider her last-moment refusals to appear at the great opera houses of Europe and America—or her temperamental exits before the final curtain. Certainly, her romantic friendship with Aristotle Onassis and their now-famous Mediterranean cruise showed a complete lack of good public relations and discretion on her part.

To remain friends with a woman like Maria Callas is impossible. But I also find it impossible not to be fascinated by her superhuman dedication to her art.

W. SOMERSET MAUGHAM

■ At the end of the 19th century, there was a young intern in a London hospital, William Maugham, who kept tempting himself with the idea of quitting the medical profession, going to Paris, and becoming a writer.

This is usually a preface to a lackluster future, if not down-and-out failure. But the story of William Maugham has a different ending. He went on to become the famous W. Somerset Maugham, author of 25 plays, 20 novels, and countless other works, which have earned him well over $4,000,000, set him up in a handsome flat in Paris and an elegant villa on the Riviera, and won him the sobriquet, "The Grand Old Man of English Letters."

I have known Willie Maugham for years. Unquestionably, he is one of the most compelling men I have ever met. I have spent countless evenings watching his sardonic eyes follow some man or woman around a room. And often, I thought I've recognized that man or woman slightly disguised in a subsequent Maugham story. I've been stimulated by his observations about people and places and the little dramas and comedies that are seen everywhere but which are especially abundant on the Riviera. I've also been challenged by Willie's excellent bridge and poker.

As he and I grow older, however, I see him less and less. I no longer care for him very much. In his venerable years, he is neither human nor kind. And when he put up for auction his fine collection of paintings instead of willing them to his daughter, it was the end so far as I was concerned. Since he had no need of the money, it showed he had no feeling for his child.

It may be that Willie became so preoccupied with his literary dissections that he killed his capacity for friendship and compassion.

But even as I write these words, I can imagine the wry smile that would twist Willie's mouth were he reading over my shoulder.

CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

■ I admire Clare Boothe Luce for many reasons. She has written Broadway hits. She has served in Congress. She was successful as our ambassador to Italy—after many "experts" stated flatly that no woman could ever succeed as a diplomat in a male-dominated Latin country.

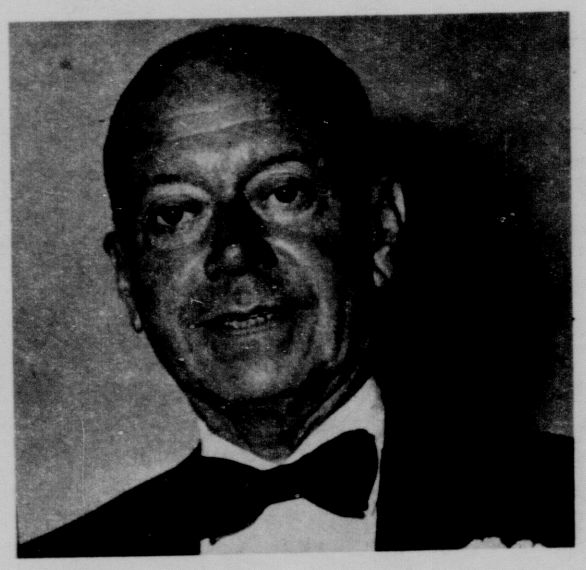
But there also is a less well-known reason why I rank Clare high on my list. I will never forget the way she rallied her forces after her daughter Ann was killed in an automobile accident. For in addition to her grief at losing her only child, she suffered remorse over the fact that she and Ann had come to enjoy a close relationship only a pitiful few years before the girl's death. Until then, Clare had been so busy earning a living and following her intellectual interests that they had had little opportunity to know each other.

"Ann's death will be the end of Clare," many friends said.

It was the end of the old Clare. But today, at 59, she is a more beautiful and brilliant woman than ever before. There is a difference, however. She now has a warm faith in the world and her fellow men. Her new outlook came with her conversion to Catholicism.

Often, when I haven't seen Clare for months, I'll get a telegram that will read: "Hear you have been ill. Take care. We need you very much" or "All the joys of the Easter season to you, dear friend."

I find it fun—and heartening, too—to receive such thoughtful, loving messages from one who is supposed to be a hardheaded intellectual.



COLE PORTER

■ If you fell in love during the last three or four decades, Cole Porter probably contributed in some measure to your emotion. Cole's songs—like "Night and Day," "I Get a Kick Out of You," and "What Is This Thing Called Love?"—were made for lovers.

Cole and I have been friends for more than 40 years. Still, when anyone speaks of him, my heart gives a little jump. To me, he was the mainspring of Paris glamour in the '20s.

Everything that was amusing took place at the Porters. His wife Linda was so beautiful that Cole never looked at anybody else. But, at their house, no one ever was bored. There the new dance steps either went into limbo or became a vogue. Games which are still being played were invented there, for Cole has the liveliest imagination of anyone I've known.

In those days, I was much more social than Cole. He didn't care enough for parties to risk the bores among the guests. He would wait for me outside the house or hotel where I was being entertained, and as soon as I could decently escape, I would join him for a tour of the town. Few people knew Paris as we did. Instead of going where it was fashionable to go, we visited places that amused and interested us.

All the love and gaiety Cole and Linda Porter knew and spread around them were too good to last. In 1937 Cole was riding on a friend's estate when a horse stumbled and fell on him. Both his legs were broken. He was operated on 20 times or more. Off and on for years, his legs were in painful casts. When he was composing the music for "Du Barry Was a Lady," his piano was raised on blocks so that he, his wheel chair, and his casts could fit under it.

Through it all, Cole managed to be Cole. But in 1954 Linda died; and with her gone he loved life less. When his right leg was amputated in 1958, his love of life diminished still more.

I keep hoping that one day enough spirit will return for Cole to prove he still can write the greatest lyrics and melodies of them all. For anyone else, this would be a foolish dream. But with my dear Cole Porter, it could happen.

QUEEN FREDERIKA

■ One of my favorite people is Queen Frederika of Greece—and it's not because I'm a snob or a name dropper and she is a queen. The reason is that Freddy, as she's known to her friends and relatives, is the "genuine article" both as a woman and as a queen.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet told me that the Communists surely would have taken over Greece after World War II if it had not been for Frederika. Accompanied by only one servant, she went into the hills countless times and talked to the wives of the miners and farmers. Her discussions of communism alerted them to its dangers. Her ardent patriotism shamed them. And their devotion was won by her considerable bravery—for they knew she risked being killed at this time.

Frederika is so wonderfully alive, so vivid, and so democratic it would be impossible for her to subscribe to any archaic concept of royal conduct. Somehow, without losing one whit of dignity, she manages to be exceedingly frank about almost everything.

For instance, she told me about her unpleasant experience with Farouk when she was on an official visit to Egypt. While a ball was in progress, he led her to a private balcony and tried to take her into his arms. His desire, if not his conduct, was understandable; the Queen is very lovely with her blue eyes, her dimples, and her young and symmetrical five-foot, three-inch figure. Farouk turned out to be less a fool than I have always thought him, however. He knew she meant it when she said: "Release me at once before I scream the palace down!" He let go of her immediately.

MARJORIE POST MAY

■ Marjorie Post May is exciting because she doesn't know the meaning of leisure—even though she is a great beauty, a great charmer, and one of the richest women in America.

She looks after her grain and cereal empire as her father trained her to do.

She personally supervises her 60-room home in Washington, which is complete with an air-conditioned wing for her 32 servants, a movie theater walled in royal-blue velvet, and acres upon acres of gardens graced with Japanese cedars, a waterfall, and flowers beyond description. In addition, she keeps several suites on reserve in Washington hotels for any weekend guests she cannot accommodate at her home. She entertains on a gigantic but incredibly efficient scale.

She is completely conversant with the movie and television career of her beautiful daughter Dina Merrill.

She has a good life with her devoted husband Herbert May and sees to it that they spend considerable time at their house in Pittsburgh, his home town.

She supports the Washington Ballet and does great good with her Music for Young America, through which scholarships are granted to aspiring musicians.

An incredible woman, Marjorie Post May. I am glad to be her friend. Whenever I find myself harassed by the variety of things I have to do, I sit back, take a deep breath, and remember the poise with which she handles all phases of her ceaselessly demanding existence.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. KENNEDY

■ I have known the President and Mrs. Kennedy for a long time. When Jacqueline was awaiting Caroline, she used to spend an occasional afternoon with me at my New York apartment. She and her husband have attended my parties.

I have always been intrigued by the quiet understanding between them. Unlike many wives, Jackie even gives evidence of having understanding of Jack's great attraction for women—an attraction which springs from his electric vitality, delightful humor, and almost courtly manners.

During the Presidential campaign, I urged Jackie to do something about her husband's hair—to use bobby pins, if necessary, to keep it down. I told her he must not look so young.

I must admit that, although I never doubted his brilliance, I did have misgivings about his youth. But either I underestimated John F. Kennedy or he learned fast. Probably a little of both is true.

Historians tell us that when there is need for a great leader one appears. In truth, men frequently exhibit an inspiring ability to rise to the occasion.

Our President, with his great sense of history, cares very much for our country and goes out of his way to show it. He has made mistakes. He undoubtedly will make others. But I am satisfied that his mistakes will pale beside the things he will accomplish.

It seems to me that Jacqueline also emerged overnight into the sort of woman the First Lady of the United States should be—and too rarely is. I have always found her charming and attractive. But the sensitive know-how she displayed from Inauguration Day on has astounded me. I obviously underestimated her, too.

I do not find Jackie as beautiful as many proclaim her. Nor do I consider her one of the world's best-dressed women. I think she is too small to carry clothes with any great authority. I applaud her for far more important things: for the way she entertains; for the credit she does us abroad; for her genuine interest in artists and scientists; for the feeling of history with which she is redecorating the White House.

As our President and First Lady, as man and wife, and as individuals, Jack and Jacqueline Kennedy are indeed interesting and imposing figures.

Spartan Training

The Cubs are off to have a cookout.
They're going up to old Mount Lookout
To scorch their meat on open fires
As burnt as any child desires,
Acquiring by such rustic rigors
Strong characters and scores of chiggers,
So that in years to come they'll go
To dinner in a patio
And cope with steaks both charred and raw,
And fight the smoke that serves to draw
The bug life in for miles, forsooth.
The cookouts of their early youth
Will turn the Cubs to men of strength
Who'll fill their country's breadth and length
With gallant heroes tough enough
For gracious living in the rough!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

A large crowd had gathered to watch firemen battle a blaze which was destroying a pawnshop. Suddenly a distraught man burst through the crowd, shouting he had to get into the shop.

Police seized him and held him back. "It's all right, Mac," one said. "Everybody has been rescued. There's no danger."

"That's what you think," the man cried. "My wife's fur coat is in there, and she doesn't know it!" —James Schulow

Today's women certainly are well-balanced individuals—how else could they walk on those heels? —J. W. Pelkie

The traffic officer curbed a speeding woman driver and demanded her license. He noticed that it was a restricted license, requiring the woman to wear eyeglasses while driving.

"Lady, you don't have your glasses on," the officer said sternly. "Why not?"

"But, officer," she replied, "I have contacts."

"I don't care whose friend you are," the policeman replied. "Where are the glasses?"

One thing you can still get for a dime is an argument from your youngsters that it should be a quarter. —Hal Chadwick

Two Indians were camping on the plains when one of them observed smoke signals coming from the distant mountains. Turning to his companion, who was dozing in the warm sunshine, he said, "You wait here, Tando. I'll ride closer and make out the message."

He rode off to the distant horizon and returned hours later, dusty and weary. "Tando," he said, "you'd better answer it. It's for you." —F. G. Kernan

The Boy Grows Older—and Wiser

Our son now knows that life's made up
Of various jobs and labors.
He's big enough to mow the lawn,
And so he mows the neighbor's.

Spartan Training

The Cubs are off to have a cookout.
They're going up to old Mount Lookout
To scorch their meat on open fires
As burnt as any child desires,
Acquiring by such rustic rigors
Strong characters and scores of chiggers,
So that in years to come they'll go
To dinner in a patio
And cope with steaks both charred and raw,
And fight the smoke that serves to draw
The bug life in for miles, forsooth.
The cookouts of their early youth
Will turn the Cubs to men of strength
Who'll fill their country's breadth and length
With gallant heroes tough enough
For gracious living in the rough!

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

A large crowd had gathered to watch firemen battle a blaze which was destroying a pawnshop. Suddenly a distraught man burst through the crowd, shouting he had to get into the shop.

Police seized him and held him back. "It's all right, Mac," one said. "Everybody has been rescued. There's no danger."

"That's what you think," the man cried. "My wife's fur coat is in there, and she doesn't know it!" —James Schulow

Today's women certainly are well-balanced individuals—how else could they walk on those heels? —J. W. Pelkie

The traffic officer curbed a speeding woman driver and demanded her license. He noticed that it was a restricted license, requiring the woman to wear eyeglasses while driving.

"Lady, you don't have your glasses on," the officer said sternly. "Why not?"

"But, officer," she replied, "I have contacts."

"I don't care whose friend you are," the policeman replied. "Where are the glasses?"

—John Shotwell

One thing you can still get for a dime is an argument from your youngsters that it should be a quarter. —Hal Chadwick

Two Indians were camping on the plains when one of them observed smoke signals coming from the distant mountains. Turning to his companion, who was dozing in the warm sunshine, he said, "You wait here, Tando. I'll ride closer and make out the message."

He rode off to the distant horizon and returned hours later, dusty and weary. "Tando," he said, "you'd better answer it. It's for you." —F. G. Kernan

The Boy Grows Older—and Wiser

Our son now knows that life's made up
Of various jobs and labors.
He's big enough to mow the lawn,
And so he mows the neighbor's.

—Stephen Schlitzer

15 QUESTIONS CARY GRANT NEVER ANSWERED BEFORE

Women, money, fashions, and aging are among the topics discussed by this ever-popular star who is currently appearing in "That Touch of Mink"

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

1 What do you remember most vividly about your youth?

Insecurity. I think every child has a constant need for confidence and the love that strengthens it. No matter how much a child receives, it never seems to be enough for him.

2 Do you ever get lonely or bored?

Having the friends I believe I have, there's no need to be lonely even if I'm alone. I can pick up my telephone and usually find an agreeable conversation. I also have many books through which I can quietly enjoy the thoughts of others. Being naturally curious, I'm never bored —though I'm occasionally less interested than I had anticipated.

3 What qualities do you look for in a friend?

The same qualities I look for in everyone: love and trust—and an ability to exchange ideas peaceably without offense —and for mutual help.

4 What character or personality trait of yours would you most like to change?

A compulsion to talk too much rather than listen.

5 Have you ever analyzed why your marriages failed?

I've tried to, yes, and I think I might have been at fault. I also regret not having children, and I have thought about adoption. But it's still possible for me to have children of my own.

6 What mannerism in women do you dislike most?

Affectation.

7 Do you think that the average man does not properly respect women?

I have never met the average man, and I don't know anyone who considers himself average. But the degree of respect a man feels for a woman is in exact ratio to the degree of respect he will be given by her.

8 What are the most noticeable differences between American and foreign women?

There isn't a great deal of difference among well-traveled women. In these days of international communication and exchange of ideas, the fashions in dress and coiffure are similar in most capitals of the world. In rural sections, they are naturally more traditional and related to the area. The degree of noticeable difference, therefore, is mostly a matter of geography.

9 Does a well-dressed woman make an impression on you?

It depends upon what one considers well-dressed. Most women make an impression by not trying to make an impression. Certainly, personality will overcome even an obvious lack of knowledge about current styles but, for their own security, I think most women enjoy being at least conventionally presentable in terms of today's fashions.

10 As for yourself, do you "work" at being one of the world's best-dressed men?

I don't "work" at it; not in the way I think you mean the question.

11 Is it true that you're the richest actor in Hollywood?

I doubt it; in fact, it's certain that I'm not. Not by any means.

12 How do you decide what movies you'll make?

I like to make pictures that will give people pleasure. I'd rather hear them laugh than cry.

13 How do you manage to stay so young?

I don't think I do. Age is a point of view, so perhaps I appear young only by comparison with other persons my age who let themselves grow old or, in too many cases, even hasten the process.

14 Are you afraid of old age?

It seems to me a man would be a fool not to approach death with some trepidation since it's the unknown. I prefer today because I don't know tomorrow. I am not afraid of the future, however, if that's what you mean. At a party recently, the guests were asked: "If you could remain a certain age, which would you choose?" Most people mentioned ages such as 17, 21, 23, or 26. But I would settle for today. This year was fuller than last, and I hope next year will be still fuller. I have faith that it will.

15 If you could live your life over again, what would you do differently?

That's a question that can t properly be answered. At least, I can't answer it. I can't live my life over again, and it's fruitless to contemplate the possibility. I did the best I could in the light of each new knowledge. Each moment and each circumstance was predicated on the moment and circumstance that preceded it and, therefore, I could not have lived differently. As I said before, I did the best I could.

1 clove garlic, crushed in a garlic press or minced
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
½ teaspoon basil
